

LEAGUE WINS HOUSE; SENATE CLOSE COOLIDGE TO CONTROL NEW CONGRESS

REPUBLICANS GAIN HEAVILY ON DEMOCRATS

Take Seats From Them Many Places in the Election of Tuesday For Congress

ALSO HOLD SENATE?

If Republicans Take Two of Three Outstanding Contests, They Control

Washington, Nov. 6 (By the A. P.)—Ability of the Republican organization to control the new Congress elected Tuesday appeared today to hinge upon the outcome of Senatorial contests in three states—Minnesota, New Mexico and Wyoming. There was little doubt that that it would have a fair majority in the House over Democrats and LaFollette insurgents.

If the Republican candidates for the Senate in two of the three states still in doubt are victorious and the vacancy in Connecticut is filled by a Republican, a coalition of Democrats and consistent supporters of Senator LaFollette would fall two short of a majority. In Minnesota and Wyoming the Republican candidates are leading on the face of incomplete returns as received today, but in New Mexico Senator Bursum was trailing his Democratic opponent, Britton.

With the result in 16 Congressional districts still in doubt, the lineup of the new House on unofficial returns was Republican 238; Democrats, 177; scattered four.

Of the missing districts, nine now are Democratic and seven are Republican, but even should all of these be captured by the Democrats the Republican organization still would have a majority of 19 with which to offset defections in the LaFollette bloc.

This majority is a result of inroads that Republicans made on the Democratic side. They recaptured 25 seats while the Democrats took only three places from them. With the last doubtful district in Pennsylvania finally swinging into the Republican column, the Democrats will be without representation in this delegation, having lost six seats to the Republicans.

New York, Nov. 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Republican triumph in the election assumed an even greater magnitude as the counting of ballots nears completion.

Over-night returns not only boosted the total of electoral votes credited to Coolidge and Dawes but increased the likelihood that the new administration will have a dependable majority of its own in Congress. They likewise lifted to new heights the vast Republican majorities in states already counted in the Coolidge electoral columns and gave indications of depositing there all the electoral strength now classed as doubtful.

The latest in the triumphal procession are Montana and Nevada, having seven in the electoral vote. That would increase the party total to 374, or 108 more than is needed to elect. For a time LaFollette had threatened to capture one or the other, but the figures available today appeared to make both safely Republican.

Democrats Get 156
The electoral bing of Davis and Bryan remained in the meantime at 136 and apparently the only chance of an increase was in New Mexico where the Democratic ticket was holding the lead by only a scant plurality. Coolidge was gaining at a radio which if maintained would add this state also to the Republican total.

LaFollette's last opportunity to increase the electoral vote of the 13 given him by Wisconsin seemingly hinged on the returns from the only other state remaining on the doubtful list—North Dakota—with five votes. Coolidge remained in the lead on the face of returns from two-thirds of the state but his plurality was diminishing as a mounting LaFollette vote came in from the rural districts.

May Be Defeated
The Congressional returns listed the Republican majority in the House to a point where it seemed probable that the administration would be able to outvote there the Democrats and LaFollette insurgents. Thus it appeared that the Wisconsin Senator not only had been held to a minimum of electoral strength in his fight for the Presidency but also was in jeopardy of losing the commanding position he has held for the past two years as leader of a group holding the balance of power in Senate and House.

To Continue Party
Despite this situation the leaders of the LaFollette Independent group were planning today to keep a party organization together for future use.

At the same time the Democrats, buried under a landslide for the (Continued on page 8)

BROOKHART LEAD MOUNTS
Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 6 (By the A. P.)—An incomplete check of the Senatorial ballot showed Senator Smith W. Brookhart leading Daniel F. Steck, Democrat, by 1,600 votes at 12:45 p. m. today. The total was Brookhart 447,204; Steck 445,611.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 6. Although Representative Thomas D. Schull, Republican candidate for United States Senator, appeared to hold a commanding lead on the face of incomplete and unofficial returns from Tuesday's election, his political opponent, Senator Magnus Johnson, Farmer-Labor, refused early today to concede defeat.

Schull had a margin of 21,000 votes early last night but later returns cut this to about 17,800. Figures from 2,830 precincts out of 5,607 gave Schull 310,919 and Johnson 329,032.

MINNESOTA VOTE

St. Paul, Nov. 6.—Returns from 2,830 precincts out of 5,607 in Minnesota gave for United States Senator Schull, Republican, 351,111; Johnson, Farmer-Labor, 331,842; and Farrell, Democrat, 45,701.

BROOKHART LEADS

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 6.—Partial returns from the Iowa Senator election at 11 a. m. today showed Senator Smith W. Brookhart to be leading his Democratic opponent, Daniel Steck of Ottumwa by slightly more than 700 votes. An error of 300 in Brunn Vista county in favor of Brookhart uncovered by county auditor Nautman was the biggest factor in changing the standing of the candidates. Other additions were made to Brookhart's total in a half-dozen counties. Another error, this one in Polk county, Des Moines, gave Brookhart an additional 200 votes, bringing his lead to 759. The vote totals follow: Brookhart 447,248; Steck 446,489.

McDonald Wins In Morton Co.

L. H. Connolly, for the past six years of Morton county, was defeated by 116 votes by C. F. Kelsch, figures today showed. Kelsch carried every precinct in the city of Mandan. J. H. Noakes, who has been deputy county treasurer, was successful in his fight against T. J. Krause. Sheriff Charles McDonald was reelected by a majority of about 500 votes, although he carried Mandan by but 22. R. K. Jensen was elected county superintendent over C. L. Love. Jensen's total majority will be more than 1,200. The Mandan Pioneer, going out of Mandan with a majority of 904 against the Mandan News, was reelected official paper by a total of 874 majority.

MANY JUDGES REELECTED IN HOT CONTESTS

Jansonius and Coffey Are Leading Their Opponents in Fourth District

District Judges Fred Jansonius of Bismarck and James A. Coffey of Jamestown were reelected in the fourth judicial district, unofficial returns today showed. James A. Murphy of Jamestown was trailing both judges.

Judge A. T. Cole, upon whom a vigorous fight was waged in the first district by the temperance forces, appeared an easy winner. E. J. Graham, Nonpartisan, Ellendale, was defeated in his attempt to oust either Judge Wolfe or Judge V. Kenna. Judge F. T. Lemke, upon whom a fight was made in the sixth district, also appeared a winner.

Latest tabulations on district judge follows:

M'CURDY LEADS HIS OPPONENT BY 265 VOTES

Appears Elected States Attorney of Burleigh County. With Few Precincts Out

TRIBUNE IS ELECTED

Named Official Paper by Majority, Which Probably Will Be 900 Votes

Although a few country precincts in Burleigh county had not been reported this afternoon, the increased totals made available had not shaken any of the results, which previously appeared to be established. The closest county race was for states attorney, between E. S. Allen, incumbent, and F. E. McCurdy.

When 54 precincts out of 60 in the county had been tabulated, McCurdy had 2,903 votes to 2,638 for Allen, a lead of 265. Mr. McCurdy declared he was elected, on the face of these returns.

The Bismarck Tribune was elected official paper in the county by a large vote, the majority probably being about 900 when all votes are reported. With 56 out of the 60 precincts reported, and only small ones remaining to be heard from, the vote was Tribune 2,998; State-Record 83,987; a lead for the Tribune of 908 votes.

The Tribune received a remarkably heavy vote in the city of Bismarck, the newspaper carrying the city by 1,132 votes, or 200 votes more than Halvorson, the head of the Independent ticket. The vote on official paper was lighter than on the head of the ticket, especially in view of the position of the newspaper candidates in an obscure corner of the ballot.

The Tribune also showed a marked gain in its vote in the rural precincts outside the city of Bismarck, as compared to two years ago, the precincts thus far reported showing a gain of about 500 votes over the paper's vote of two years ago. A very large farmer vote was registered for The Tribune.

Burleigh county totals, with 8 precincts missing, included:
County superintendent, Marie Hubler, 2,065; Mudgett Runey, 3,355.
County auditor, Harry Clough, 2,088; Frank Johnson, 2,236.
Register of Deeds—Fred Swenson, 3,759; Jessie Van Hook, 1,575.
Treasurer, Gerald Richolt, 2,190; G. L. Spear, 3,279.

County judge—J. C. Davies, 3,321; John F. Fort, 1,974.
Coroner—E. J. Gohel, 3,798; B. F. Flannagan, 1,243.
Tax Reduction—For 2,175; against 3,233.
Courthouse—For 1,745; against 3,523.

Burleigh Totals
Totals for Burleigh county, with some rural precincts out, showed the trend of the election in this county. They follow:

48 out of 60 precincts: Coolidge 2,904; Davis 258; Foster 5; LaFollette 2699.
48 out of 60 precincts for Congress: Hall 3,011; Gerald Nye, 1,897; Freerks, 56.
39 out of 60 precincts for Congress: Hall 3,011; Gerald Nye, 1,897; Freerks, 56.

46 precincts gave for Governor: Sorlie 2,450; Halvorson 2,809.
74 precincts gave for Lieutenant-Governor: Walter Maddock, 2,233; J. E. Paulson, 2,364.
44 precincts for Secretary of State gave: Robert Byrne 2,193; D. E. Shipley, 2,351.

46 precincts for State Auditor gave: John Steen 2,401; D. C. Pindexter 2,016.
44 precincts for State Treasurer gave: C. A. Fisher 2,504; J. A. Birder 2,056.

47 precincts for Attorney-General gave: George Shaffer 2,954; Thorson 1,802.
45 precincts for Commissioner of Insurance gave: S. A. Olmstead 2,656; W. S. Hooper 1,592.

44 precincts for Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor gave: J. A. Kitchen 2,932; W. J. Church 1,735.
45 precincts for Commissioner of Railroads gave: Fay Harding 2,249; W. C. McDonnell, 2,498; Frank Millhollan 2,690; L. M. Byrne 2,227; Edward Hadley 2,147; Edward Kohler 2,102.

42 precincts for judge of supreme court gave: John Burke 2,232; J. J. Fisk 2,241.
42 precincts for state superintendent of public instruction gave: Niphe J. Nielson 2,704; Bertha Palmer 2,734.
40 precincts on the tax reduction measure gave: "For" 1,974; "Against" 2,929.

Comparisons of the above figures plainly show that the candidates on the Republican ticket had the advantage over their opponents. Attorney-General Shaffer, Commissioner of Agriculture, Kitchen and State Treasurer John Steen, candidate for Auditor, ran well ahead of other Independents in Burleigh county. (Continued on page 8)

GOVERNOR

A. G. SORLIE

LAFOLLETTE IS CUTTING INTO COOLIDGE LEAD

Fargo, Nov. 6.—Senator Robert M. LaFollette continued to trim President Coolidge's lead in North Dakota this afternoon as returns filtered into the Associated Press unofficial tabulation headquarters here. The last 32 precincts reported showed that he was cutting Coolidge's plurality of 1,050 at the rate of 24 votes a precinct. If he can keep this average up, returns indicate, he will win this state's five electoral votes.

When 1,683 of the state's 2,160 precincts had reported at 2 p. m., the President had a lead of 10,836. When 1,715 precincts had reported, however, LaFollette trimmed the lead down to 10,650. The remaining precincts are almost wholly from rural and western sections where the Wisconsin Senator claims and is granted his stronghold. When 32 additional precincts came in the President's lead was cut to 9,603.

The vote in North Dakota at 3:30 p. m. was: President 1,717 precincts out of 2,160; Coolidge 83,987; LaFollette 71,384; Sorlie 14,452.
Arthur G. Sorlie, Nonpartisan League candidate and winner of the gubernatorial contest, continued to increase his lead over Halvorson, fusion candidate. When at 3:30 p. m. today, 1,566 precincts were tabulated, Halvorson had 72,732; Sorlie 79,105.

JOHN BURKE WINS EASILY

Assumes Big Lead Early in Contest With Fisk

Fargo, Nov. 6 (By the A. P.) John Burke, United States Treasurer during the Wilson administration and former Governor of North Dakota, seemed assured of election to the North Dakota supreme court at noon today. When 718 of the state's 2,160 precincts were returned, Burke had a majority of 22,474 votes. The vote: Burke 39,511; Fisk 17,038.

LAFOLLETTE TO KEEP FIGHTING

Senator Not Discouraged Over the Result

Madison, Wis., Nov. 6.—After making his first public statement on the election in which his independent presidential candidacy was overwhelmed in a landslide vote for President Coolidge, Senator Robert M. LaFollette began last night to shape his plans for the immediate future, with special reference to his return to Washington to prepare for the short session of Congress.

His statement, issued late yesterday after returns from virtually every state had been scrutinized by the senator and his closest political advisers, said: "The progressives will not be dismayed by this result."
"So far as I am personally concerned," his statement said, "I am enlisted for life in the struggle to break the combined power of private monopoly system over government and to restore it to the people."

Senator LaFollette passed a quiet day at his farm outside of Madison where scores of telegrams from friends and supporters from all corners reached him throughout the day. He was in good spirits and chatted pleasantly with all who called to visit at his Maple Bluff farm. In one year motor registrations increased by 20 per cent.

Fargo, Nov. 6.—(By the A. P.)—When 109 members of the new House of Representatives had been accounted for this afternoon the League has 60 members and the Independents 49. In four outstanding contests remaining unsettled, the Independents led in each instance.

Fargo, Nov. 6.—(By the A. P.)—The Nonpartisan League winner in the gubernatorial race in North Dakota also has captured control of the House of Representatives, with the outcome of the contest for control of the Senate hanging upon the result of a single Senatorial battle, that in Grant county.

The contest for control of the North Dakota legislature was swinging toward the Nonpartisan Leaguers today so far as the House of Representatives was concerned when they added three members from the Golden Valley district, two from the Hettinger district and assured them of at least one in the Grant district. This gave them 54 with 57 necessary to control, and other districts added to their total.

Sheriff Charles McDonald was reelected by a majority of about 500 votes, although he carried Mandan by but 22. H. K. Jensen was elected county superintendent over C. L. Love. Jensen's total majority will be more than 1,200. The Mandan Pioneer, going out of business with a majority of 904 against the Mandan News, was reelected official paper by a total of 874 majority.

MANY JUDGES REELECTED IN HOT CONTESTS

Jansonius and Coffey Are Leading Their Opponents in Fourth District

District Judges Fred Jansonius of Bismarck and James A. Coffey of Jamestown were reelected in the Fourth Judicial District, unofficial returns today showed. James A. Murphy of Jamestown was trailing both judges.

Judge A. T. Cole, upon whom a vigorous fight was waged in the First district by the temperance forces, appeared an easy winner. J. Graham, Nonpartisan, Ellendale, was defeated in his attempt to oust either Judge Wolfe or Judge McKenna. Judge F. T. Lemke, upon whom a fight was made in the Sixth district, also appeared a winner.

Latest tabulations on district judge follow:
254 precincts 1st district 19,521; Coffey 12,969; Englert 21,954; Shipley 16,383.

Fourth judicial district, 148 precincts Coffey 8,735; Jansonius 8,684; Murphy 6,704.

Sixth judicial district, 130 precincts Berry 6,619; Lemke 6,507; Miller 4,951; Pugh 6,964; Simons 3,489.

44 precincts for the tax reduction measure gave: "For" 1,974; "Against" 2,929.

Comparisons of the above figures plainly show that the candidates on the Republican ticket had the advantage over their opponents. M'CURDY LEADS HIS OPPONENT BY 265 VOTES

Appears Elected States Attorney of Burleigh County, With Few Precincts Out

TRIBUNE IS ELECTED

Named Official Paper by Majority, Which Probably Will Be 900 Votes

Although a few country precincts in Burleigh county had not been reported this afternoon, the increased totals made available had not shaken any of the results which previously appeared to be established. The closest county race was for states attorney, between E. S. Allen, incumbent, and F. E. McCurdy.

When 53 precincts out of 60 in the county had been tabulated, McCurdy had 2,903 votes to 2,638 for Allen, a lead of 265. Mr. McCurdy declared he was elected, on the face of those returns.

The Bismarck Tribune was elected official paper in the county by a large vote, the majority probably being about 900 when all votes are reported. With 56 out of the 60 precincts reported, and only small ones remaining to be heard from, the vote was: Tribune 2,983; State-Record 2,015, a lead for the Tribune of 968 votes.

The Tribune received a remarkably heavy vote in the city of Bismarck, the newspaper carrying the city by 1,133 votes, or 200 votes more than Halvorson, the head of the Independent ticket. The vote on official paper was lighter than the head of the ticket, especially in view of the position of the newspaper candidates in an obscure corner of the ballot.

The Tribune also showed a marked gain in its vote in the rural precincts, outside the city of Bismarck, as compared to two years ago, the precincts thus far reported showing a gain of about 500 votes over the paper's vote of two years ago. A very large farmer vote was registered for The Tribune.

Burleigh county totals, with 8 precincts missing, included:
County superintendent—Marie Hughes 2,605; Judge Roney 3,355.
County auditor—Harry Clough 2,086; Frank Johnson 3,236.

Register of Deeds—Fred Swenson 3,759; Jessie Van Hook 1,575.

Tax Reduction For 2,175; against 3,233.
Courthouse—For 1,745; against 3,523.

A. G. SORLIE

LAFOLLETTE IS CUTTING INTO COOLIDGE LEAD

Fargo, Nov. 6.—Senator Robert M. LaFollette continued to trim President Coolidge's lead in North Dakota this afternoon as returns filtered into the Associated Press unofficial tabulation headquarters here. The last 32 precincts to report showed that he was cutting Coolidge's plurality of 1,050 at the rate of 24 votes a precinct. If he can keep this average up, returns indicate, he will win this state's five electoral votes.

When 1,683 of the state's 2,160 precincts had reported at 2 p. m., the President had a lead of 10,836. When 1,715 precincts had reported, however, LaFollette trimmed the lead down to 10,650. Madison, Wis., Nov. 6.—After issuing his first public statement on the election in which his independent presidential candidacy was overwhelmed in a landslide loss for President Coolidge, Senator Robert M. LaFollette began last night to shape his plans for the immediate future, with special reference to his return to Washington to prepare for the short session of congress.

His statement, issued late yesterday after returns from virtually every state had been scrutinized by the senator and his closest political advisers, said: "The progressives will not be dismayed by this result."

"So far as I am personally concerned," his statement said, "I am enlisted for the struggle to break the combined power of private monopoly system over government and to restore it to the people."

Senator LaFollette passed a quiet day at his farm outside of Madison where scores of telegrams from friends and supporters from all sections reached him throughout the day. He was in good spirits and chatted pleasantly with all who called to visit at his Maple Bluff farm.

In one year motor registrations increased by 20 per cent.

Fargo, Nov. 6.—(By the A. P.)—The Nonpartisan League winner in the gubernatorial race in North Dakota also has captured control of the House of Representatives, with the outcome of the contest for control of the Senate hinging upon the result of a single Senatorial battle, that in Grant county.

The contest for control of the North Dakota legislature was swinging toward the Nonpartisan Leaguers today so far as the House of Representatives was concerned when they added three members from the Golden Valley district, two from the Hettinger district and assured them of at least one in the Grant district. This gave them 54 with 57 necessary to control, and other districts added to their total.

PEOPLE OF N. D. SHOULD REJOICE SAYS COULTER

November Truly Month of Thanksgiving in State. Says A. C. President

STUDENTS TO WRITE

Themes in Support of Greater North Dakota Movement To Be Undertaken

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 4. November is to be "Thanksgiving month" in reality for North Dakota this year. Why the true spirit of Thanksgiving should prevail in North Dakota, and especially why students in the state college should be thankful this November 27 is the theme of a letter to be written by the students at the North Dakota Agricultural college in a contest inaugurated by Dr. John Lee Coulter, president of the institution.

The best letter is to be published in the Spectrum, college paper, and sent to all the universities and colleges of the country with the Thanksgiving greetings of the students of the North Dakota college. The author of the prize-winning letter will receive an award of $10. For second place $7.50 is to be given, for third place, $5 and for fourth place $2.50. All letters are to be judged by a committee of three, consisting of two faculty members and one student. Letters must not exceed 500 words and will contain a Thanksgiving greeting to all other schools of higher learning in the United States and must also state briefly some of the reasons why North Dakota residents can be thankful in 1924.

Supporting Movement

"The college students and faculty members want to do their part in supporting the movement for a Greater North Dakota, in letting other states and countries know some of the many good things that we have in this state," said Dr. Coulter in his message to the students. "There are many real reasons why we at the college should be thankful this year and this month is the logical time to express that thankfulness."

"Just as the Eagle is recognized as the great symbol of American liberty in July so the turkey is recognized as the great symbol of American prosperity and thanksgiving in November. We like to live in peace under the wings of the one, but we also like to get a piece from under the wings of the other."

"Let's truly recognize November as 'Thanksgiving month' for North Dakota this year. While we must not boast or brag about ourselves, our state, our institution, yet may we not in a perfectly proper, modest way send thanksgiving greetings to the students of all the other colleges of America?"

Thousands of students in colleges presently will graduate; they will be looking for the greatest opportunity to carry on their life's work. While they may not have large wealth they will have training and education and noble things they may be able to secure the financial support of parents or friends.

"In sending these greetings from North Dakota might we not tell something of the reasons why we in North Dakota are thankful, not only for the bountiful harvest and very satisfactory prices for everything which we have to sell, but for the wonderful soil and coal and clay, for the other natural resources, for the sunshine and rainfall and temperate climate, which is so wonderfully health giving and invigorating?"

"May we not also tell something of our college and of the opportunities for education which North Dakota affords as well as other blessings which are ours?"

Tell of Opportunities

"The business men of North Dakota during November will be telling the business men of other states about our opportunities; professional men will be telling those of other states; our farmers will be telling the farmers elsewhere about the remarkable agricultural resources; and our various commercial organizations will be telling of the wonders of great deposits of clay and coal."

"They will be pointing to the day when this state will see tremendous power plants at the entrance to our coal mines, producing power for industry and sending power to every corner of the state in the form of electric energy."

"Our student body will wish to participate in this movement and as a body tell the students of all parts of the United States of the great opportunities in North Dakota at the same time that we send thanksgiving greetings."

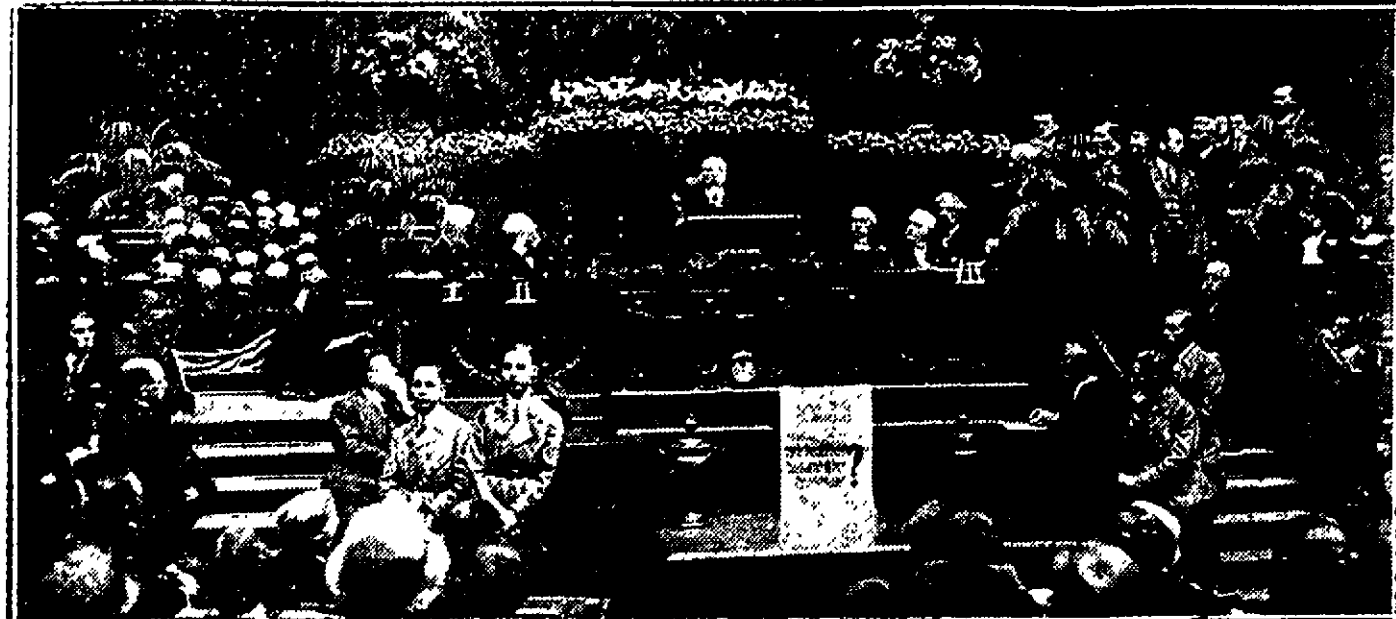

"It is with this in mind that I propose that we participate in the Greater North Dakota campaign which has in mind to tell the truth about our state."

Many Veterans Rehabilitated At State A. C.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 4.—But 12 wounded veterans of the World War, out of a total of 294 who have been enrolled since the program started in 1914, are now enrolled at the North Dakota Agricultural college under the Rehabilitation Training plan fostered by the government and directed by the Veterans Bureau, records at the registrar's office show.

"Three or four years ago this group was an influential one on the campus, taking part as a unit in school activities and with an independent organization of its own," the registrar, A. H. Parrott, says.

CAPITAL MAY BECOME CITY OF TENTS IN RENT WAR

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer
Washington, Nov. 4.—Washington, "The City Beautiful," may once again become a tented city unless a truce is reached between the capital's landlords and tenants.

More than 2000 notices of eviction, effective Nov. 1, have been served by landlords on tenants who have refused to meet rent increases which went into effect Oct. 1.

This threatened wholesale eviction is the culmination of a warfare between renters and rentees that began with our entry into the World War Congress, however, put the brakes on sky-rocking rentals at that time by declaring a housing emergency and providing a rent commission for the District of Columbia with power to regulate rentals.

This commission, under fire by District landlords, has been continued from year to year by Congress. But recent court decisions adverse to the local rent act and the powers of the commission have given the property owners courage and the flood of dispossession notices is their declaration of war.

That it may be an intense and dramatic battle is indicated by the rallying of threatened renters into a "Renters' League," sworn to resist the demands of their landlords to the limit.

Preparatory to the "zero hour" for battle this organization has applied for permission to erect tents in the city, a large open park space immediately south of the White House for the housing of members who suddenly find themselves and their possessions in the streets.

These grounds were thrown open a year ago, for tents to house thousands of visiting Shriners during the national Shrine convention. Secretary of War Weeks, however, says permission for such use by Shriners was specifically granted by Congress, and that lacking congressional

Proclamation

GOLDEN RULE SUNDAY

WHEREAS, Sunday, December the seventh, 1924, has been designated as the date for an international relief effort, to be known as Golden Rule Sunday, by the representatives of twenty nations, including the United States, who recently met in Geneva, Switzerland, in an international conference to determine the best manner in which the people of the different countries represented could assist in alleviating the distress and suffering of the tens of thousands of practically denationalized orphans of the Near East—victims of the late World War and who are, in a peculiar sense, international wards, and WHEREAS, out of their deliberations of the above subject matter and relief plans in connection therewith, there evolved an additional and EVEN MORE important objective, the development of Golden Rule principles in both the personal and national life of the co-operating countries, as a contribution toward international good will, co-operation and permanent world peace, and WHEREAS, President Coolidge, Chief Executive of the United States, has commended this great humanitarian effort in the following language:

"I believe that the international observance of this day may not only save lives of thousands of destitute, but may possibly have an even greater benefit in the way of reflex influence upon those who thus observe the Golden Rule and help to establish it as a reality in daily living."

"The international observance of this day might well contribute materially to the betterment of international relations and abiding world peace."

NOW, THEREFORE, I, R. A. NESTOS, Governor of the state of North Dakota, believing that the people of this state are in sympathy with these high ideals, most sincerely request that

be observed throughout the state as GOLDEN RULE SUNDAY

and in addition that the week period preceding or succeeding this date be utilized, if it be found convenient, as our opportunity for personal stocktaking; that we may thus determine whether or not we are adhering to the universally accepted and age-old standard of life, "WHATSOEVER YE WOULD THAT OTHERS SHOULD DO UNTO YOU, DO YE EVEN SO UNTO THEM," upon which great principle our nation and state were originally built and transmitted to us by our forefathers, and

FURTHER, to the end that the whole purpose of this Golden Rule Day arrangement may be carried to every citizen of the state, that all may be advised of the date agreed upon, and opportunity provided for every citizen to engage in its observance, I respectfully designate, and at the same time charge, the state officers of the Near East Relief organization, together with the co-operating members of the Golden Rule Day State Committee whom I will later name, with the responsibility of perfecting a plan and an organization in each county of the state that will enable each individual citizen and religious, educational, social, civic, or fraternal group who desire to participate, an opportunity to do so.

In Testimony whereof, I have hereunto subscribed my name and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the state of North Dakota. Done at Bismarck.

R. A. NESTOS, Governor.

MRS. LUCY WELLS ONLY SHERIFF IN ENGLAND

Canterbury, England, Nov. 4.—This ancient cathedral city has just received a custom of medieval times by conferring the office of sheriff upon a woman. Incidentally the recipient of the honor, Mrs. Lucy Green Wells, the wife of a local tailor, has the distinction of being the only woman in England to hold such an office.

My chief duty as sheriff," Mrs. Wells said recently, "is to appear with the mayor and council on special occasions wearing my purple robe, with the silver chain of office round my neck."

"Nowadays the under-sheriff is responsible for most of the actual work in connection with the office, but there are still certain functions I perform. If a Canterbury man had to be hanged, for instance, I believe I should have to sign the document certifying that the execution had been properly carried out."

There were women sheriff's deputies in the middle ages, and in those days they had to shoulder heavy fiscal, military and administrative burdens. One of the first notable women of the middle ages to hold the office was Ella, Countess of Salisbury, who was sheriff of Wiltshire until she embraced religion and retired to the Abbey of Lacock.

ISLANDERS ARE HAPPY

London, Nov. 4.—Hayling Island is about the only place in England where there is no unemployment.

The island, in the Southampton area, has a prosperous population of about 3,000 and at present no one there is receiving a penny from the national unemployment fund. The men and women of the island are all busy in the fields, in the fishing grounds and the shops.

The mackerel season, which is just over, has been the best in years and the harvest, unlike the rest of England, is bountiful. There are plenty of visitors on the island and the inhabitants are in a state of financial exuberance.

The islanders also differ from their mainland compatriots in that they would rather live in the country than in the town. Last year the population of one of the two towns on the island dropped from 800 to 600 because the price of farm products went up.

ARGENTINE BREEDING POLO PONIES

Buenos Aires, Nov. 4.—The Argentine polo ponies which contributed so much to the victory of the Argentine four in the Olympic polo championship, are the product of four or five generations of crossing "criollo," or native, ponies with small sized English thoroughbreds. They are considered to combine the qualities of endurance and cleverness of the native horse with the speed of the English product.

Since the tour of Argentine polo players to England and the United States in 1923, when the players sold the mounts at a very large profit, the breeding of polo ponies has almost become an industry in Argentina. For a number of years polo ponies have been produced here on four or five ranches, and have had a sale in Europe, mostly in England. The King of Spain has been one good buyer of them.

Now, with the additional prestige gained by the Argentine product at the Olympics, other ranches are devoting themselves to breeding. Sires and mothers accustomed to the large rodeos of the Argentine pampas are selected, for they are not afraid of being ridden down, especially if they have been used in parting cattle.

"LA GIOCONDA" TOOPEN CHICAGO OPERA SEASON

Rosa Raisa, Cesare Formichi and Antonio Cortis Will Be Featured

Chicago, Nov. 6.—A revival of Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," featuring Rosa Raisa, Cesare Formichi and Antonio Cortis, the latter in the American debut, tonight opened Chicago's season of the opera. The performance, conducted by Giorgio Polacco, ushered in eleven and a half weeks of opera during which time a half dozen new stars will make their debut.

The principal artists were supported by the best of the ballet in "The Dance of the Hours," staged by Serge Dukrinsky. The Milles, Elsas, Milar, Menoff and Sherman were the ballerinas with the Pavlov-Oukrainsky ballet in the ensembles. Puccini's "La Tosca" will be sung Thursday evening, with Claudia Muzi appearing for the first time here in the titular role, and Mariano Stabile will make his American debut as Scarpia. Robert Moranzoni, the latest acquisition to the staff of conductors, also will make his debut.

Friday evening will bring a revival of Meyerbeer's "Le Prophete" with Louise Homade and Charles Marshall in the principal roles and Moranzoni conducting. The first novelty of the season will be given at the Saturday matinee in the presentation of Bizet's "Les Pecheurs de Perles" (The Pearl Fishers). This work has not been heard in Chicago for more than a decade. The artists appearing in the leading roles will be Graziella Pareto, Charles Hackett, Giacomo Rimini and Edouard Coetreuil.

Verdi's "Aida" will be sung Saturday night with Rosa Raisa, Augusta Lenska, Forrest Lamont and Cesare Formichi in the principal roles. The opening opera for the first full week will be Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor" with Toti Dal Monte making her American debut in the titular role. Tuesday night will bring the first German work here in Wagner's "Tannhauser," with Olga Forrai making her American debut and Cyrena Van Gordon and Joseph Schwarz appearing for the first time this season. The director will be Henry G. Weber, a young Chicago musician who makes his American debut.

CHURCH MADE DOMINANT IN MISSOURI

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Nov. 6.—Persons of every religious faith have united in a movement to make the church dominant in Cape Girardeau. A fund subscribed by business and professional citizens maintains three illuminated signs and systematic newspaper advertising during the year. Each church also advertises separately.

The newcomer is greeted with this sign opposite the union station: "Cape Girardeau—A city of churches, schools and substantial business institutions, where the home is paramount and where the church is the foundation of the community life."

The city's daily newspaper, each year gives a dinner at which pastors and a few laymen from each congregation discuss plans for united church work. All churches at the last meeting reported unprecedented increases in attendance and budgets.

Out of these dinners the Church Promotion Organization was formed. A Protestant is chairman, a Catholic is secretary and a Jew is the largest contributor.

BERLIN SEES PROSPERITY

Berlin, Nov. 6.—Amazing changes have come about in Berlin with the opening of the new theatrical and musical season, the business revival effected by the stabilized rentmark, and the adoption of the agreement worked out at the London conference for the execution of the Dawes plan.

High-priced hotels are crowded; there are theatre and opera openings almost nightly. Various German commercial organizations are holding conventions and conferences; directors of various shipping companies are preparing for the extension of their activities and hotelmen have been encouraged to greater activity. Hotel lobbies are more brightly lighted and private dining rooms are again entertaining many parties. Berlin hotel keepers are especially jubilant over the dropping of the tax of 15 percent which the city has imposed on all foreigners occupying rooms in Berlin.

Berlin's leading hotels are taking on an especially international aspect, and celebrities from all parts of the world are again appearing here as in pre-war days. In the lobby of a single hotel Mrs. Katherine Tingley, Ganna Walska, Ossip Gabrilowitch, Isadora Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Dawes, H. M. Robinson, Leo Slezak, Gerhard Hauptmann, Max Reinhardt, Mascagni, Maria Gay, Julia Culp-Fritz Masaryk and a score of other persons known to newspaper readers the world over were recently to be seen.

CURRENT BUSINESS CONDITIONS

By George E. Roberts

(From the Monthly Bank Letter for October Issued by The National City Bank of New York)

There is apparent in business circles some disappointment that the industrial rally which was quite noticeable in August did not develop into a more pronounced movement in September. We think, however, all things considered, that the volume of trade in recent months and the present trend in industry should be regarded as quite satisfactory. The falling off of production during the past six months has been for the most part in lines that were very active in the preceding six months and which evidently had accumulated a surplus of goods. In some of these, notably iron and steel, productive capacity has been increased in the last ten years to such an extent that it need not be deemed discouraging if it is not kept fully employed all the time. Coal-mining has been notoriously over-developed and nothing but acute depression will ever give it normal activity.

The cotton goods industry has been affected by an unsettled state of the raw material market, which in turn has been due to small supplies and unusual dependence upon the growing crop. Notwithstanding the light production of goods in the last six months, goods have been plentiful enough to prevent price-advances and keep the industry on an unprofitable basis. Merchants have insisted that consumers would not pay the prices which manufacturers said they must have to cover their costs, and have refused to buy except in the most piecemeal manner.

With the price on the way down from 25 to 22 cents, the mills, particularly in the South, somewhat increased their operations. The Northern mills have renewed their efforts to obtain wage-concessions, and the American mills have reached an amicable arrangement with their employees for a reduction of 10 percent. This company, one of the oldest and largest in the industry, like many others, showed a loss on last year's operations.

Business has not been much better in woolen and worsted goods than in cotton, and there is not so good an excuse to offer, for there has been no prospect of cheaper wool to hold off buyers. Trade has been slow, although manufacturers have cut their margins to the quick, as indicated by the action of the largest factor in the industry in passing the dividend on its common stock. Here, also, however, there is the consolation that stocks of goods have been diminishing and that a turn cannot be long delayed.

The shoe industry has not been right for some time, but here there has been decided recovery. Wage concessions have been made recently in the principal Massachusetts centers and there is a general report of better business.

These are the worst spots in industry, although copper and oil are entitled to mention when the roll of the depressed is called. Both are close to the lowest prices on record. In both cases, however, this is not so much due to lack of demand as to increased and apparently uncontrolled production. The consumption of copper in this country in the first six months of this year is said to have been no less than in the corresponding period of last year. In the case of oil it is the old story of supplies accumulating beyond the ability of producers and middlemen to carry them. Experience in all lines teaches that the only cure for such a situation is to have prices drop to a point where part of the production becomes unprofitable. However, lower prices resulting from a production which overruns normal demands is not a symptom of industrial depression.

It is a notable fact that throughout the past six months the volume of bank clearings or debits has been running somewhat ahead of last year, and although the loadings of revenue-freight have been under last year, the deficit has been largely in coal, and a few industries recognized as below normal.

Apparently industry on the whole has been better than holding its own, and the reports as to the movement of merchandise and prospects for trade are almost everywhere better. Of course it is these reports as to increasing distribution are well-founded, industry will inevitably be quickened.

Fundamental Considerations
There is a tendency in judging the business situation by reports from individual industries to get so close to it that there is a lack of perspective and danger of not seeing the woods for the trees. While it is sometimes the case that the state of activity in given industries is dominated for the time being by conditions within them, as in the case of coal mining and cotton goods production in recent months, the most potential influences usually are of a general character, affecting all industries and causing reactions from each upon all others. Local conditions, or conditions peculiar to particular industries, are usually temporary, giving way either to adjustments within or to the influence of a rising general tide of prosperity.

At the present time certain developments of great importance are to be noted which make for the inauguration of a period of general prosperity. A pronounced change for the better has come over the agricultural situation. The final estimates of all the crops are better than the early estimates. This is especially true of wheat, and the wheat-growing sections have been the ones that have suffered most in the depression since 1920. Moreover, owing to the smaller Canadian production and a light harvest in Europe, the increased yield in this country is accompanied by higher prices.

The greatest drawback to stable industry in this country since 1920 has been the unchanged relations between agriculture and the other industries, which has limited the purchasing power of the largest single group of consumers. That situation is in the way of being very much mitigated if not wholly relieved.

Upon two previous occasions the recovery of agriculture from protracted periods of depression has marked the beginning of the most notable periods of prosperity this country ever experienced. One of these occasions was in 1877-78 when good crops and good prices turned the foreign trade balance in our favor, assured the success of the government's policy of specie resumption on January 1, 1879, and inaugurated the great period of railroad construction and industrial development from 1880 to 1892. The other was in 1897-98, when good crops—particularly of wheat—and a recovery of prices were the leading factors in lifting us out of the Bryan era of depression, and in inaugurating the wonderful decade of industrial development which began in 1898-99. The "come back" of agriculture upon these two occasions was followed by periods of industrial growth which each in turn eclipsed anything in the previous history of the country. We need emphasize that no previous experience had prepared even the most capable business men to anticipate the growth that was coming. Everybody who planned for the future underestimated its requirements.

The greatest obstacle, however, to the establishment of stable and prosperous conditions has been the unsettled state of Europe, for there is reason to believe that it has been largely responsible for the agricultural depression. And now we have the prospect that the improving conditions in agriculture will be supported by the recovery of industry in Europe, and that the reviving industries of all countries by increasing the purchasing-power of all populations will supply each other with markets. The highest degree of prosperity is to be had when all countries are prosperous together, for a general revival. In our opinion, and the conditions are now favorable the people who are thinking chiefly of the menace of reviving competition, are thinking of consumption as a fixed quantity, whereas consumption is a highly variable quantity, depending altogether upon well-balanced production.

The only remaining economic condition that would seem to be necessary for the inauguration of a period of prosperity more notable than any in the past is an abundance of liquid capital and credit, available to support enterprises in any and every direction in which development is needed. That requisite also is present. Never has the business community been more amply equipped with financial resources, and the normal development of the past ten years has been held back by the war.

The Cloud Over Business
What occasion then is there for doubt or hesitation, and why does not business go forward with the confidence which seems to be warranted? The most reasonable explanation is to be found in the inharmonious relations that have been developing in the industrial organization. No matter what may be the size of an organization, from a football team to the all-inclusive industrial organization by which society supplies its wants, it cannot achieve success or prosperity without teamwork. Instead of teamwork in the social and industrial organization we have it split up into groups and blocs and factions, each so intent upon advancing its particular interests that it gives no thought to the common interests, which are of vast importance to all. The efficiency of the organization is enormously reduced by friction.

Moreover, the point has been reached where general confidence in the stability, if not in the permanency, of the existing order is impaired. With the growth of specialization, the organization becomes more intricate, more delicately balanced, more dependent upon mutual confidence and mutual loyalty, but increasingly subject to misunderstandings, misrepresentations, and spasmodic swings of public opinion.

It is evident that the forces making for disorganization and for the overthrow of the existing order of individual liberty and individual initiative have been gaining ground in recent years, and this year are making a more formidable showing than they have been able to make heretofore. This has been accomplished by a ceaseless campaign of misrepresentation and falsehood, until repetition and reiteration have insinuated millions of honest and well-intentioned people. It is true, as often cheerfully said, that the nation has been holding elections for 140 years and not been ruined by any of them down to this time, but even so it has had some serious experiences and narrow escapes; moreover, it has never faced so radical an attack upon its institutions as this which has been developing in recent years. Moreover, if the people who are making this attack believe the misrepresentations which their leaders utter it is difficult to see how they could fail to adopt the radical measures they advocate, in the event of their coming to power.

That the radical movement has any chance of carrying the country this year nobody believes, but that there is a possibility of no electoral choice, which would involve a protracted contest in the two houses of Congress with uncertain results must be recognized. Moreover, it would be unfortunate to have this radical coalition become even the second party in numerical strength, because it would be a constant drag upon progress and menace to security.

It is deplorable that an industry of such vital importance to the country as the transportation industry, should be made a target of attack in a national campaign, and even more extraordinary that its employees in large numbers, as represented by the officials of some of their organizations, should join in the attack. It means the cultivation of antagonism where in the interest of the public service there should be cooperation. The attack on the railroads, however, is only part of a general attack upon the private management and ownership of industry.

These conditions are not favorable to industrial efficiency or progress, but are depressing to the spirit of confidence and enterprise which has been characteristic of all our great periods of development.

$500 PRIZE OFFERED FOR MUSIC CONTEST

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 6.—As an added incentive to the American music student under 30 years of age, the Federation of Music Clubs has announced a prize of $500 for the final winners entering the biennial contest of the organization this year. The contests are for male voices, female voices, piano and violin. A year's scholarship, including living expenses, in one of the prominent music institutes of the country, is an alternative.

This is being given with a view of emphasizing the educational side of these contests," said E. H. Wilcox, chairman of the contests. "The rules have been changed for this season, the list of test pieces re-chosen and everything possible done to make the contest fair and an incentive to high standards. "The contests will be held in a series of three, the state, the district and at the finals before the convention to be held next June in Portland, Oregon. The district winners will compete in Portland."

GREATER N. D. FUND GROWS

Several Counties Exceed
Their Quotas

Officers of the Greater North Dakota Association announce today that several counties of the state have reported the completion of their county quotas in the state-wide drive for funds by the association with which to "tell the truth about North Dakota" in an extensive advertising and publicity campaign, the association confidently expecting by this method to increase immigration to the state and to enhance the good name of the state abroad among business men and financial interests. Several contributions to the fund have been received at association headquarters from persons outside the state who have seen the value of such a campaign and expressed a willingness to help in the good work. The most notable person contributing to the fund so far has been Lt. Com. John Philip Sousa, who recently gave a concert at Valley City and, hearing of the state-wide movement proposed, expressed a desire to help in the work. He contributed twenty-five dollars to the fund.

The fund is being raised on the basis of one dollar per family in the towns and cities and one dollar per quarter section from land owners. Non-resident land owners are being asked by the association to contribute as well as resident land owners. Non-resident mortgage holders are also being solicited together with banks, wholesale houses, manufacturers, etc., doing business within the state.

The response to the campaign for funds has been so great that the officers of the association have already started advertising work, feeling that the completion of the fund is assured. The first step taken by the association has been the ordering of one million letter inserts

One pilgrimage from Argentina is due to arrive Christmas Eve, the day before the Holy Year opens. A thousand English pilgrims are coming in the following May. The Maltese pilgrimage will arrive in August. The International Association of Catholic Youth is sending representatives in September and other pilgrims are coming to Rome from Mexico, Quebec, Montreal, Minnesota, Michigan

"MA" DELAYS THEIR WEDDING

Francis Donahue, 18, of Minneapolis and Vernaehel Stevenson, 16, of Tomahawk, Wis., decided they were old enough to marry. They sneaked away from the Stevenson home one night, hiked seven miles to catch a train and started for St. Paul. Vernaehel's mother had awakened meanwhile and put in a long distance call to St. Paul police. When the elopers arrived there, a reception committee of three detectives awaited them. The wedding has been called off.

and the Philippines at dates yet to be fixed.

The largest number of pilgrims yet announced is from Germany, from which country a train of 1,000 pilgrims is being organized every ten days. Six hundred Chinese are expected in January. Chilean pilgrims are arriving in February, and a body of French war widows in April. Other pilgrimages are being arranged from Palestine, Syria and Egypt.

Ancient Dogmas Are Harmful To Churches

London, Nov. 6.—"The churches cannot afford to be hampered by uncollectible beliefs which greatly weaken their influence on those who are worth influencing; religion stands on ground which cannot be assailed: it has no use for rickety defenses." Such were the words in which Prof. J. S. Haldane, of New College, Oxford, brother of England's lord chancellor, told the Conference of Modern Churchmen of the harm done to Christianity by ancient dogmas which, he said, were not in keeping with present-day knowledge. He was discussing biology and religion. Prof. Haldane admitted religion. He was a church member and proceeded to tell the conference the reason why.

"I am one of many," Prof. Haldane said, "who are kept away from existing churches by dogmas we cannot honestly countenance. There is, perhaps, a still larger number who actively hostile because they regard churches as hotbeds of superstition." Continuing the speaker said: "If I belonged to a church at all it would be to my own Scots church, for the one reason that it possesses the advantage of having no prayer book."

'COOLIDGE NOT EXCITED OVER BIG VICTORY'

President Takes Things Easily; Receives Messages of Congratulations

Washington, Nov. 6.—President Coolidge calmly received assurances Tuesday of his election as president by an overwhelming vote, issued a statement of "simple thanks" and turned again to his desk and the work which has constantly occupied his attention since entering office a little more than a year ago.

"I have no appeal except to the common sense of all the people," Mr. Coolidge said in expressing his appreciation in the statement which he read to a group of newspapermen in his office. "I have no pledge except to serve them. I have no object except to promote their welfare."

Up early after retiring late Tuesday night, the president went to the executive office after a walk about the White House grounds and read returns which had accumulated during the night and gave assurance of his election. During the morning yesterday a telegram of congratulation was received from John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee, to which Mr. Coolidge replied, expressing his thanks.

Intimate friends called throughout the morning and afternoon yesterday to extend congratulations, among them being several members of the cabinet. Meanwhile messenger boys brought telegrams and cablegrams of congratulations from all parts of the world.

Turning his attention to official business, Mr. Coolidge issued a proclamation proclaiming Thursday, Nov. 27, as Thanksgiving Day. A short nap made up the sleep lost last night when late hours were kept by the family receiving returns, but he was again in the office in the afternoon.

The president late yesterday went for a walk through the downtown section of the city. Mingling among the crowds, he was often recognized, and the greetings of all seemed a little happier than usual.

"I wish to congratulate you, we are proud of you," one woman said to Mr. Coolidge as he stood on the corner waiting to cross the street. The president lifted his hat and thanked her.

The walk over, Mr. Coolidge returned to the executive mansion where he and Mrs. Coolidge have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston.

McCURDY LEADS HIS OPPONENT BY 265 VOTES

These three having been nominated in the June primary on the Republican ticket.

Judge C. J. Fisk ran well in Burleigh county, although the final returns, with rural precincts to come, were expected to show a majority for Fisk in the county. Final returns in the county also were expected to show a majority for Miss Bertha Palmer for state superintendent of public instruction.

Big Vote Out

There were 3,288 votes cast in the city of Bismarck for Governor, as compared to 2,636 votes in the June primary, or an increase of 652 votes. The vote also was rather heavy in the country precincts.

Many rural precincts in Burleigh county were slow in coming in, as usual after elections, although The Tribune was able to present yesterday and today more precincts in Burleigh county than in past elections. This was due to special arrangements and efforts being made to get the votes of all precincts as quickly as possible.

The last election board to finish in Bismarck, completed its work late yesterday afternoon. It was the board at Thorpe's garage. The complete table of the city vote, as presented in The Tribune yesterday, told the story of the county contests, the country vote not upsetting the big leads rolled up by most candidates in Bismarck.

Much credit is given by independent to the work of their campaign committee for the big Halvorson majority in Bismarck. The county campaign committee was headed by H. J. Duemeland, and Eric Thorberg was city manager. Mrs. H. F. Keller was secretary. H. P. Goddard, vice-chairman.

Members of the committee were: H. J. Duemeland, A. L. Garneau, H. P. Goddard, L. W. Sperry, Fred Peterson, Valentine Bunn, Mrs. E. P. Quinn, Mrs. R. A. Tracy, Mrs. H. C. Edgerton, Mrs. E. E. McCurdy, Mrs. Matt Bousplund, Mrs. H. F. Keller, Mrs. Herthoff.

Sorlie Is Elected, Rolling Up Lead Steadily

How Lead Dropped

The lead was whittled away during the receipt of returns late yesterday and during the night to the point where it was cut in half when 1,630 precincts had reported. The following shows the progress of returns on the Presidency as between Coolidge and LaFollette:

Sorlie Takes Lead

Sorlie went into the lead for the Governorship when tabulations had been made on 1303 districts, Halvorson having held the lead up to that time. Progress on returns show that Halvorson's high point was a majority of 11,663 that he had when 706 precincts were reported.

Late yesterday the Halvorson margin began to melt before the onslaught of the western and central league districts and it had slipped to less than 4,000 with returns in from 1,009 precincts and was entirely gone and a Sorlie lead substituted as the 1,300th precinct was received.

Halvorson-Sorlie Comparison

The following table shows the trend of the gubernatorial contest, as precinct totals were made.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 6.—When Benson's name was reported the election of two Nonpartisan League members of the House the League was definitely assured of 56 members, within one of enough to control the lower branch of the assembly. With returns from all but 8 precincts out of 48 in Grant county Fred Pathman, Independent, had a lead of 40 votes over O. C. Gross, for the State Senatorship.

The result of this contest will determine the political complexion of the state senate in the coming session.

COOLIDGE NOT EXCITED OVER BIG VICTORY

President Takes Things Easily; Receives Messages of Congratulations

Washington, Nov. 6.—President Coolidge calmly received assurances Tuesday of his election as president by an overwhelming vote, issued a statement of "simple thanks" and turned again to his desk and the work which has constantly occupied his attention since entering office a little more than a year ago.

"I have no appeal except to the common sense of all the people," Mr. Coolidge said in expressing his appreciation in the statement which he read to a group of newspapermen in his office. "I have no pledge except to serve them. I have no object except to promote their welfare."

Up early after retiring late Tuesday night, the president went to the executive office after a walk about the White House grounds and read returns which had accumulated during the night and gave assurance of his election. During the morning yesterday a telegram of congratulation was received from John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee, to which Mr. Coolidge replied, expressing his thanks.

Intimate friends called throughout the morning and afternoon yesterday to extend congratulations, among them being several members of the cabinet. Meanwhile messenger boys brought telegrams and cablegrams of congratulations from all parts of the world.

Turning his attention to official business, Mr. Coolidge issued a proclamation proclaiming Thursday, Nov. 27, as Thanksgiving Day. A short nap made up the sleep lost last night when late hours were kept by the family receiving returns, but he was again in the office in the afternoon.

The president late yesterday went for a walk through the downtown section of the city. Mingling among the crowds, he was often recognized, and the greetings of all seemed a little happier than usual.

"I wish to congratulate you, we are proud of you," one woman said to Mr. Coolidge as he stood on the corner waiting to cross the street. The president lifted his hat and thanked her.

The walk over, Mr. Coolidge returned to the executive mansion where he and Mrs. Coolidge have their guests Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston.

second time in four years, were trying to dig themselves out far enough to take stock of the consequences to their party.

John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee, will talk over reorganization plans with Clem Shaver and other Democratic leaders at a luncheon tomorrow but it is probable that some time will elapse before there is a definite result.

these three having been nominated in the June primary on the Republican ticket.

Judge C. J. Fisk ran well in Burleigh county, although the final returns, with rural precincts to come, were expected to show a majority for Fisk in the county. Final returns of Burleigh county also were expected to show a majority for Miss Bertina Palmer for state superintendent of public instruction.

Big Vote Out
There were 3,288 votes cast in the city of Bismarck for Governor, as compared to 2,636 votes in the June primary, or an increase of 652 votes. The vote also was rather heavy in the country precincts.

Many rural precincts in Burleigh county were slow in coming in, as usual after elections, although The Tribune was able to present yesterday and today more precincts in Burleigh county than in past elections. This was due to special arrangements and efforts being made to get the votes of all precincts as quickly as possible.

The last election board to finish in Bismarck completed its work late yesterday afternoon. It was the board at Thorpe's garage. The complete table of the city vote, as presented in The Tribune yesterday, told the story of the county contests, the country vote not upsetting the big leads rolled up by most candidates in Bismarck.

Much credit is given by Independents to the work of their campaign committee for the big Halvorson majority in Bismarck. The county campaign committee was headed by H. J. Duemeland and Eric Thorberg was city manager. Mrs. H. F. Keller was secretary. H. P. Goddard, vice-chairman.

Members of the committee were: H. J. Duemeland, A. L. Garness, H. P. Goddard, L. W. Sperry, Fred Peterson, Valentine Bentz, Mrs. E. F. Quam, Mrs. R. A. Tracy, Mrs. H. C. Edgerton, Mrs. F. E. McCurdy, Mrs. Matt Boesfling, Mrs. H. F. Keller, Mrs. Berthoff.

Sorlie Is Elected, Rolling Up Lead Steadily

when 725 precincts were in, giving him a margin of 20,419.

How Lead Dropped
The lead was whittled away during the receipt of returns late yesterday and during the night to the point where it was cut in half when 1,630 precincts had reported. The following shows the progress of returns on the Presidency as between Coolidge and LaFollette:

Pcts. Reported	Coolidge	LaFollette

Sorlie Takes Lead
Sorlie went into the lead for the Governorship when tabulations had been made on 1303 districts, Halvorson having held the lead up to that time. Progress on returns show that Halvorson's high point was a majority of 11,663 that he had when 706 precincts were reported.

Late yesterday the Halvorson margin began to melt before the onslaught of the western and central League districts and it had slipped to less than 4,000 with returns in from 1,009 precincts and was entirely gone and a Sorlie lead substituted as the 1,300th precinct was received.

Halvorson-Sorlie Comparison
The following table shows the trend of the gubernatorial contest, as precinct totals were made.

POSTOFFICE MAKES GAIN

Receipts Jump Here During The Month of November

A marked gain in postal receipts in Bismarck during the month of October indicates that the Bismarck postoffice likely will equal or exceed its record receipts of last year, when it went into second place among post-offices in the state.

Receipts during the month of October were $11,238.61, as compared to $8,690.51 for the month of October, 1923. Postmaster Lundquist said today. Similar increases are expected for November and December.

For the first three quarters of the year the postoffice fell back somewhat in receipts. The comparison follows: 1923, 1st quarter, $40,808.03; second quarter, $37,133.77; third quarter, $36,133.52; fourth quarter, $36,269.97 and in 1924: 1st quarter, $37,761.54; 2nd quarter, $34,377.45; 3rd quarter, $36,212.53.

The postmaster has been informed that permission has been granted by the department for establishment of a postoffice at Burnt Creek, about 15 miles north of here, in the home of Mrs. Kieher. Arrangements for getting mail from Bismarck have not yet been made.

COOLIDGE VICTORY

Sane government properly regulated in its progress and protected by constitutional safeguards, circumscribed by complete separation of the judicial and the executive won a smashing victory at the polls Tuesday. Senator LaFollette, apostle of discontent, advocate of destructive principles aimed at tearing down constitutional guaranties cut only a small figure in the great upheaval which has put Calvin Coolidge in the White House for another term.

Not a party victory, but a great tribute to a great man. While enthusiastic politicians sought to force him into positions inconsistent with the high office, into statements that would answer the ribald attacks of the soap box agitators, he stood steadfast for the great American principles and the tenets of sound government, economically and conservatively administered.

Those who followed LaFollette and those in the nation who endorsed the internationalism of Davis, probably regard Tuesday's victory as a conservative victory, but they are looking through partisan eyes and are dreaming still of a league of nations without restrictions, of a foreign policy uncontrolled or actuated by the best traditions of America—but the millions who cast their ballot for Coolidge know and feel that Tuesday's victory was a great endorsement of the kind of government this nation was conceived in and which has always been a great stimulus toward orderly and secure progress.

The man Calvin Coolidge stands out preeminently in this victory. The G. O. P. has been obscured in the triumph of the silent, keen Yankee whose chief assets are backbone and the will to say no when it is necessary to discount the importunings of self interested and self seeking politicians.

North Dakota may show in the victory and those who held high the Coolidge banners in this state rejoice with the millions who today are celebrating the victory that means so much in this present crisis when a steady hand at the helm was never more sorely needed.

Coolidge's stand for the right, his refusal to compromise and his courage upon the vital issues have been most triumphantly vindicated in this election. It should spur parties and leaders everywhere to discard expediency and compromise and stand for the right—because it is the right and not because it may or may not be profitable in the contest for votes and preferment. He vetoed the bonus bill, he stood for revision of the budget downward so that tax relief might spur a nation to new production in the field and in the factory. To some his plain Yankee economy was a dull and stale policy—other ornate and high sounding theories seemed more vital issues, but the voters of the nation have placed their stamp of approval upon a regime that is taking the government out of private business and initiative and putting more businesslike methods and frugality into the conduct of the people's business.

LaFollette's pet issue of government ownership should be buried for at least a generation in view of Tuesday's election returns. The farmer, the railroad man, in fact all those whom LaFollette has been trying to tell would benefit from such a plan have been most ardently against it. The effect in North Dakota should be salutary and spur leaders of all factions to end the costly and foolish program of industrialism that is putting a load upon the shoulders of this and coming generations.

Let the next legislature take courage in face of the Coolidge vote, to smite state ownership through legislation that will speedily liquidate and salvage state owned industries before more millions are lost.

Sorlie as governor of North Dakota, has one of his greatest jobs mapped out for him in saving the property of this state from confiscation through a foolish entry of the state government into a highly competitive and intensely specialized business which if it did succeed financially would serve no good end and bring only unfair competition to those who follow the grain and milling business for living.

Coolidge's vote contains a great lesson to the manipulating politician who is so busy looking for an issue that will foist him into a job that he overlooks the basic principles that mean victory when followed with the logic and courage of a Calvin Coolidge.

We need more Yankee shrewdness in the conduct of every office whatever the political division of our state, county or city government it may be.

The fruits of the Coolidge victory should be most beneficial for the endorsement imposes a most solemn obligation upon congress to support the great American who swept the nation at the Tuesday election.

ALMOST UNANIMOUS

For sometime The Tribune has tried in a non-political way to point out how retrenchments could be made in the conduct of city affairs by a reduction of items in the city budget and the ending of a system in the employment of a city engineer that is most unbusinesslike and slovenly. It has not been a pleasant task to tell the people of Bismarck how their hard earned dollars can be saved by putting the brakes upon public expenditures. Tax eaters and their beneficiaries are powerful and insistent, but it is the duty of every newspaper to inform the public and urge a saving where such a saving can be made without impairment of public service.

The vote on the proposition at this time to build a $300,000 court house reflects the temper of the people in Burleigh county. With special assessments high and other taxes too high, the people of this county want to catch their breath before they plunge into fresh debt and additional taxes.

This vote reflects the attitude of the people and any effort that tends toward easing the tax load is going to make a hit with Mr. Voter. The Coolidge vote in its broader aspects is a tribute to the president's insistence that public expenditures be cut down so that business can expand and give more jobs, do more building, increase the number of happy homes which is impossible under the burdensome taxes that beset and cripple nearly every political subdivision in the state.

Tax reduction not tax expansion is going to be a mighty popular slogan in the days to come.

In time of peace prepare for more peace.

HELD DOWN BY THE COLLAR

(Bruce Barton in Good House-keeping)

With the increasing complexity of life there are necessarily fewer business and more jobs. Most well-bred American boys come out of school with no idea except to get a respectable white-collar position. They have been under direction for twenty years or more and they took not so much for an opportunity as for a boss. The sons of our Jewish and Italian and Greek friends, having no "opportunities" and no "standards," plan differently. They will shine shoes, or sell papers just long enough to purchase a shoe shining stand or a paper route, and with that small beginning they are on their way to independence. To a considerable extent the old American ideal of "every man his own employer" has passed from us to them.

This does not imply, of course, that every American had ought to be at the head of his own enterprise. Rather, I would suggest this—that in all educational experiences there is nothing which quite takes the place of a sense of personal responsibility, and that sense is never so keen as when profit and loss are involved. So at some time in their upbringing I would have boys engage in business where they would have the whole burden, experience the thrill of possible gains and the sobering worry of possible loss. It might be a minor business—a refreshment booth by the roadside, or a contract for laying a cement walk, or anything you choose; the size makes no difference, it is the character of the thing which counts. The maturing experience of matching wits with competition, and climbing alone, with no parental mattress underneath in case of a fall.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The magic teapot poured out four vanilla ice cream sodas into the four empty glasses and the Twins and Daddy Gander and the peddler drank them all up to the last drop. An then something very queer happened.

Nancy felt as though she had swallowed a wind-bag, and Nick felt as though he had swallowed a balloon and Daddy Gander felt as though he'd swallowed—I don't know what.

They felt so queer and so light they couldn't keep their feet on the ground.

Their feet began to dangle and then they knew that they had left the earth and were moving right up through the air.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed the old peddler. "I put some floating powder into your soda water so you'd go away and never come back to Yum Yum Land. If you had stayed, no doubt you'd be wanting my magic teapot and as it is all I have left, I'd like to keep it. Good-bye! Give my love to the Man-in-the-Moon."

"Oh, dear!" cried Nancy. "I wonder where we are going now?"

"Oh, dear!" said Daddy Gander. "It's dreadful to be up in the air without the magic dust-pan to sit on. One never knows how long the magic powder will last. If they give out we'll go down like sky-rocket sticks."

"I'm not afraid," said Nick. "The cook's here somewhere in the sky, too. Perhaps we'll find the fork and the dust-pan."

"Why, I never thought of that," said Nancy suddenly. "He'll let the air out of the bread-pan and we can take it back to Pippin Hill and give it to Jack and Jill and Mrs. John. Won't they be happy?"

"Yes," said Daddy Gander dismally. "But who is going to let the air out of us? You can't stick us with a fork. If something doesn't happen we'll be sailing around up here in the air until we turn into stars."

But, my dears, we shall have to leave Nancy and Nick and Daddy Gander sailing around in the air, talking to each other. They weren't a bit uncomfortable so it didn't hurt them a bit to be there.

Down in Yum Yum Land the king was back on his throne, and it wasn't so bad to be king again because the Lord High Counsellor and the Prime Minister, and the Keeper of the Bird-Cages, had all learned to cook a little, and when it came dinner time, the king's meals were served in the dining room at the palace the same as usual. One can always get along without cooks if one has to.

And the peddler was very happy as he went down the road of Yum Yum Land in his old duds, because he had a new idea. With his magic teapot he would start a lemonade-stand-soda-water stand and make a fortune.

But the cook! You haven't any idea what had happened to him, after he disappeared in the clouds like a speck of dust, have you?

He had spied the House-That-Jack-Built up on a cloud and was going straight toward it on the magic dust-pan.

LETTER FROM MRS. SALLY ATHERTON TO JAMES CONDON

I am sorry, Jimmie, that you so glibly promised my friendship to your fiancée. You ought to know me well enough by this time to know that I do not like to be disposed of in this lordly fashion.

I am very much afraid that I will not be able to know "the sweetest and prettiest doll of a woman I can imagine."

I am not in any way a society woman and especially since Sam died I have not been very friendly with anyone, not even with Leslie, who is one of my oldest and best friends. I have determined to make a great success in the business world and have devoted my entire time to it. If I have any spare moments when I arrive in Pittsburg I know that Leslie will consider that I owe them to her in her present great sorrow, and I would not hurt her by making new friends if I had the inclination to do so while neglecting her.

Now, Jimmie, don't jump at conclusions. I am not finding any fault with you for what you are pleased to call "falling in love." You must know what you want and from your letter you evidently feel that you have found it, but I may as well tell you honestly and bluntly that your plea for my sympathy for the woman you are going to marry falls on deaf ears. I do remember all that sensational trial in which she figured and from her own testimony she marked herself as a soulless little vamp who could not be true or loyal to anyone, whose whole ambition was to find someone, anyone, to flatter and make love to her.

When her husband was too busy earning the money to supply her extravagant wants, her whole idea was to find someone else to "play around with."

Jimmie, I know you think I am very cruel. I know you are saying that no woman can be kind to another but I also know that I cannot be otherwise than honest. I would always give anyone of my sex the benefit of the doubt but when I remember how the judge from the bench excoriated her and told her that he wished there was some way of making her pay legally for what she did in connection with the murder of her lover by her husband I cannot understand how she has been able to get you, of all men, into the net.

Go into some newspaper office tomorrow and read all the testimony over again. I remember it very clearly and particularly for it did not seem to me at the time that any woman could be so utterly callous and unscrupulous. I am heartbroken that you have engaged yourself to her and I only hope that the affair will be terminated before you are legally bound to her. Otherwise you will have a life of great misery and unhappiness.

I did not mean to tell you this when I started. I thought I would wait until I saw you but as I have written it I will let it stand.

I expect from now on our friendship is lost forever and that you will hate

EVERETT TRUE BY CONDO

PARALYZED BY FRIGHT

By Albert Apple

A woman in Garfield, N. J., is unable to talk or move hand or foot, as a result of seeing her husband in their blazing garage. The fear that his death was certain actually paralyzed her.

No doubt, it is temporary and she will recover from the shock, possibly already has.

The case is an exceptionally powerful illustration of the power of mind over body.

Can disease be cured by the power of mind, by will-power and faith? Many think so. Many others do not. But it is an accepted scientific fact that many diseases can be CAUSED by the mind.

The most extreme instance is hypochondria. This is a mental disorder, in which the patient has a morbid anxiety about his health. In turn, he imagines, he has about everything under the sun—and actually develops, by the influence of mind, symptoms that are apt to baffle all except the most expert diagnostician.

It is believed that his mental condition upsets the normal functioning of adrenals and other endocrine glands, thereby causing what, to the victim, is very real and agonizing illness.

Power of mind over matter? Let 10 people in a day tell you that you look ill, and it's 50-50 that by night you will be in bed or think you should be. To aid recovery, never tell a patient he looks badly. Instead, impress on him that he looks better.

Look at the thing backwards—the power of matter over the mind. Some years ago (1891) Prentice Mulford wrote a series of books, "Your Forces and How to Use Them." Mulford and others of his school of thought advanced the theory that people rise or fall to their surroundings. In proof of this, so-called "culture" is about 90 per cent environment, 10 per cent heredity.

David Gibson has pointed out that a pig isn't naturally a dirty animal. He merely descends to the level of his surroundings. Raise a pig in a clean pen and he'll spurn filth. This has been demonstrated on experimental farms.

Most important in our environment is the matter of personal associates, in business or private life. When inferior and superior come in contact, superior descends partway to the other's level and the inferior correspondingly rises.

You can "get a man's number" by his choice of friends, the same as business is reflected by its customers, or the customers by the firm they deal with.

The Leviathan, looming as large in the background of tall buildings as if she were a whole city in herself, pulls away from her giant dock in the North River, New York, for a voyage across the Atlantic.

New York, Nov. 6.—Went down to watch the school kids have a good time on the battleship Texas, docked in the North River. And had more fun than the kids, rambling around the great decks and sticking my head in the muzzles of 14-inch guns and elevating the anti-aircraft guns until they pointed straight heavenward. With all of which, and imagining all the time that enemy men-o-war and bombing planes were about, had a rare good time. Next time the job falls on me, I'm going to join the navy and see the world.

And if Uncle Sam can feed the husky, healthy men on his battleships such meals as were prepared on the Texas at 48 cents a day, why is the cost of living so blamed high for the rest of us?

The baby-carriage garage business is picking up over on the East Side. Mothers in those high tenements wear themselves out dragging baby carriages up and down long flights of stairs. And thieves would steal the carriages if they were left on the sidewalk. Generally the baby-carriage garage is a bootblack shop which closes for the night. The rate for the week is 25 cents.

His father was a boilermaker and so he became a boilermaker. But he was shunned by the girls because he couldn't wash the grime from his hands.

He quit boilermaking, cleaned up his hands and took a course in a beauty school. Now he is one of the most successful marcel wave experts in all New York. And no girl shuns him.

FABLES ON HEALTH—MUSICAL TRAINING

When little Mollie Jones began to take singing lessons, the teacher had quite a talk with Mrs. Jones of Anytown on the subject.

"Of course it's nice to have children with good voices," said the teacher. "But did the health equation ever occur to you?"

Few people ever think of singing in terms of health. What with radios and phonographs to supply the songs it would seem that singing about the homes is becoming a scarce article.

Yet it is of great value in teaching proper breathing and singing. Furthermore the organs of the chest are greatly benefited.

How to attain the proper posture and how properly to breathe are questions best answered by a professional trainer. In many schools singing exercises are daily events and this should not only be encouraged, but included in the home program.

COOLIDGE VICTORY
Sane government properly regulated in its progress and acted by constitutional safeguards, circumscribed by complete separation of the judicial and the executive won a smashing victory at the polls Tuesday. Senator LaFollette, apostle of discontent, advocate of destructive principles aimed at tearing down constitutional guaranties cut only a small figure in the great upheaval which has put Calvin Coolidge in the White House for another term.
Not a party victory, but a great tribute to a great man. While enthusiastic politicians sought to force him into position, inconsistent with the high office, into statements that would answer the ribald attacks of the soap box agitators, he stood steadfast for the great American principles and the tenets of sound government, economically and conservatively administered.
Those who followed LaFollette and those in the nation who endorsed the internationalism of Davis, probably regard Tuesday's victory as a conservative victory, but they are looking through partisan eyes and are dreaming still of a league of nations without restrictions, of a foreign policy uncontrolled or actuated by the best traditions of America—but the millions who cast their ballot for Coolidge know and feel that Tuesday's victory was a great endorsement of the kind of government this nation was conceived in and which has always been a great stimulus toward orderly and secure progress.
The man Calvin Coolidge stands out preeminently in this victory. The G. O. P. has been obscured in the triumph of the silent, keen Yankee whose chief assets are backbone and the will to say no when it is necessary to discount the importunings of self interested and self seeking politicians.
North Dakota may show in the victory and those who held high the Coolidge banners in this state rejoice with the millions who today are celebrating the victory that means so much in this present crisis when a steady hand at the helm was never more sorely needed.
Coolidge's stand for the right, his refusal to compromise and his courage upon the vital issues have been most triumphantly vindicated in this election. It should spur parties and leaders everywhere to discard expediency and compromise and stand for the right—because it is the right and not because it may or may not be profitable in the contest for votes and power.
He vetoed the bonus bill, he stood for revision of the budget downward so that tax relief might spur a nation to new production in the field and in the factory. To some his plain Yankee economy was a dull and stale policy—other ornate and high sounding theories seemed more vital issues, but the voters of the nation have placed their stamp of approval upon a regime that is taking the government out of private business and initiative and putting more business-like methods and frugality into the conduct of the people's business.
LaFollette's pet issue of government ownership should be buried for at least a generation in view of Tuesday's election returns. The farmer, the railroad man, in fact all those whom LaFollette has been trying to tell would benefit from such a plan have been most ardently against it. The effect in North Dakota should be salutary and spur leaders of all factions to end the costly and foolish program of industrialism that is putting a load upon the shoulders of this and coming generations.
Let the next legislature take courage in face of the Coolidge vote, to smite state ownership through legislation that will speedily liquidate and salvage state owned industries before more millions are lost.
Sen. LaFollette as governor of North Dakota, has one of his greatest jobs mapped out for him in saving the property of this state from confiscation through a foolish entry of the state government into a highly competitive and intensely specialized business which if it did succeed financially, would serve no good end and bring only unfair competition to those who follow the grain and milling business for living.
Coolidge's vote contains a great lesson to the manipulative politician who is so busy looking for an issue that will foil him into a job that he overlooks the basic principles that mean victory when followed with the logic and courage of a Calvin Coolidge.
We need more Yankee shrewdness in the conduct of every office whatever the political division of our state, county or city government it may be.
The fruits of the Coolidge victory should be most beneficial for the endorsement imposes a most solemn obligation upon congress to support the great American who swept the nation at the Tuesday election.

ALMOST UNANIMOUS
For sometime The Tribune has tried in a non-political way to point out now retractions could be made in the conduct of city affairs by a reduction of items in the city budget and the ending of a system in the employment of a city engineer that is most unbusinesslike and slovenly. It has not been a pleasant task to tell the people of Bismarck how their hard earned dollars can be saved by putting the brakes upon public expenditures. Tax eaters and their beneficiaries are powerful and insistent, but it is the duty of every newspaper to inform the public and urge a saving where such a saving can be made without impairment of public service.
The vote on the proposition at this time to build a $300,000 court house reflects the temper of the people in Burleigh county. With special assessments high and other taxes too high, the people of this county want to catch their breath before they plunge into fresh debt and additional taxes.
This vote reflects the attitude of the people and any effort that tends toward easing the tax load is going to make a hit with Mr. Voter. The Coolidge vote in its broader aspects is a tribute to the president's insistence that public expenditures be cut down so that business can expand and give more jobs, do more building, increase the number of happy homes which is impossible under the burdensome taxes that beset and cripple nearly every political subdivision in the state.
Tax reduction not tax expansion is going to be a mighty popular slogan in the days to come.
In time of peace prepare for more peace.

HELD DOWN BY THE COLLAR
(Bruce Barton in Good House-keeping)
With the increasing complexity of life there are necessarily fewer business and more jobs. Most well-bred American boys come out of school with no idea except to get a respectable white-collar position. They have been under direction for twenty years or more and they look not so much for an opportunity as for a boss. The sons of our Jewish and Italian and Greek friends, having no "opportunities" and no "standards," plan differently. They will shine shoes or sell papers just long enough to purchase a shoe shining stand or a paper route, and with that small beginning they are on their way to independence. To a considerable extent the old American ideal of "every man his own employer" has passed from us to them.
This does not imply, of course, that every American lad ought to be at the head of his own enterprise. Rather, I would suggest this—that in all educational experiences there is nothing which quite takes the place of a sense of personal responsibility, and that sense is never so keen as when profit and loss are involved. So at some time in their training I would have boys engage in business where they would have the whole burden, experience the thrill of possible gains and the sobering worry of possible loss. It might be a minor business—a refreshment booth by the roadside, or a contract for laying a cement walk, or anything you choose; the size makes no difference. It is the character of the thing which counts. The maturing experience of meeting with competition and climbing alone, with no parental mattress underneath in case of a fall.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The magic tent poured out four vanilla ice cream sodas into the four empty glasses and the Twins and Daddy Gander and the peddler drank them all up to the last drop.
An then something very queer happened.
Nancy felt as though she had swallowed a wind-bag, and Nick felt as though he had swallowed a balloon and Daddy Gander felt as though he'd swallowed—I don't know what.
They felt so queer and so light they couldn't keep their feet on the ground.
Their feet began to dangle and then they knew that they had left the earth and were moving right up through the air.
"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed the old peddler, "I put some floating powders into your soda water so you'd go away and never come back to Yum Yum Land. If you had stayed, no doubt you'd be wanting my magic tent and as it is all I have left, I'd like to keep it. Good-bye! Give my love to the Man-in-the-Moon."
"Oh, dear!" cried Nancy. "I wonder where we are going now!"
"Oh, dear!" said Daddy Gander. "It's dreadful to be up in the air without the magic dust-pan to sit on. One never knows how long the magic powders will last. If they give out we'll go down like sky-rocket sticks."
"I'm not afraid," said Nick. "The cook's up here somewhere in the sky, too. Perhaps we'll find the fork and the dust-pan."
"Why, I never thought of that," said Nancy suddenly. "He'll let the air out of the sponge in the House-That-Jack-Built and we can take it back to Pippin Hill and give it to Jack and Jill and Mrs. John Won't they be happy?"
"Yes," said Daddy Gander dismally. "But who is going to let the air out of us? You can't tick us with a fork. If something doesn't happen we'll be sailing around up here in the air until we turn into stars."
But, my dears, we shall have to leave Nancy and Nick and Daddy Gander sailing around in the air, talking to each other. They weren't a bit uncomfortable so it didn't hurt them a bit to be there.
Down in Yum Yum Land the king was back on his throne, and I wasn't so bad to be king again as being the Lord High Counsellor and the Prime Minister, and the Keeper of the Privy Seal, and all that sort of thing. Bird-Capt. had all learned to cook in a little, and when it came dinner time, the king's meals were served in the dining room at the palace the same as usual. One can always get along without cooks if one has to.
And the peddler was very happy as he went down the road of Yum Yum Land in his old duds, because he had a new idea. With his magic tent he would start a lemonade-soda-water stand and make a fortune.
But the cook? You haven't any ink what had happened to him, after he disappeared in the cloud-like a speck of dust, have you?
He had spied the House-That-Jack-Built up on a cloud and was going straight toward it on the magic dust-pan.

FIRST OF BIG THREE CLASHES ON THIS WEEK

Princeton and Harvard Meet on the Gridiron Next Saturday

New York, Nov. 6.—Princeton and Harvard begin the Big Three series at Cambridge Saturday in the principal contest of a weekend which finds most important eleven engagements.

Lafayette is favored to reduce Rutgers from the undefeated ranks in their clash at New Brunswick. Lehigh, another unbeaten team, will meet a strong eleven in Holy Cross at Worcester.

Cornell and Penn State promise a stubborn battle at State College, Pa., and West Virginia and Colgate will be head matched at Morgantown. Boston college will face Marquette, winning over the Navy, but beaten for the first time in four years by Creighton.

Blue Meets Maryland

Yale will prepare for its battles against Princeton and Harvard by taking on Maryland, the squad which almost upset the Elis last year but which is not considered strong this season. Pennsylvania, which now stands alone in the east as undefeated and untied, will take on Georgetown as a prelude to Penn State and Cornell.

Cornell, restored to the status of a troublermaker, will meet Susquehanna in its preparation for Dartmouth, which will play Boston University.

Army will meet the University of Florida, which tied New York University this week and Navy may find a soft spot in Vermont after its losing streak.

Crimson Is Favorite

West Virginia Wesleyan will go to Syracuse for the weekend and Brown will entertain the Haskell Indians. Pittsburgh will play Geneva to prepare for its annual western Pennsylvania classic with Washington and Jefferson, which will face Waynesburg.

Harvard is accorded an early edge over Princeton in the first brush of the aristocratic triangle. Some observers predict the Crimson will achieve a slow awakening in time to beat both Tiger and Bulldog.

Princeton's shocking against Swarthmore was disappointing to the coaches, and the Tiger will enter the big series a doubtful quantity. Yale will be an underdog against Harvard if the Crimson fulfills its promise of beating Princeton.

Dan Laurin, former all-American quarterback at Princeton, has returned to aid in coaching the Tiger squad for its Yale and Harvard battles.

SPORTS SORTS

Jess Willard was the biggest heavyweight who ever held the title.

Marty Burke is in the throes of a fine comeback, having scored five straight victories.

Matt Hinkel, Cleveland referee, thinks the fans like a little rough fighting now and then.

Howard Ehmke failed by one game to live up to a spring prophecy. He said he would win 20 games.

Snake Ames, of Princeton fame, designed the putter with which Chick Evans won his first title.

A new attack will be made against the stylin' at the winter meeting of the U. S. G. A.

Bobby Jones has decided to invade England next spring in quest of the British amateur and open titles.

One-Eyed Connolly is a good gate-crasher but he isn't the original One-Eyed phenom. That gentleman passed out years ago.

With left handers so effective in the majors, Ty Cobb is well fortified with four of them: Whitehill, Leonard, Cole and Wells.

Walter Hagen, twice winner of the British open and the American open championships, will spend the winter in St. Petersburg.

McGraw must strengthen the outfield of the Giants, as Meusel appears to be about through and Pep Young is slipping fast.

According to no less an authority than Hughie Jennings, George Kelly, the first baseman of the Giants, is the most valuable utility man in the majors.

Eddie Collins is a football fan. He takes in all the big games in the east. As a collegian the White Sox star was the big noise in Columbia football.

As in the east and west, the smaller colleges of the coast are cutting a wide swath in football circles. Southern California beat Pomona College only 14 to 0, while Occidental, another small school, made it interesting for Stanford, 20 to 6.

Football coaches insist that if the officials of the grid game become too technical the sport will drop to the level of basketball, which is now little more than an officials' contest, with the whistle used more than the ball.

Fine Play of Quarterback Hall of Illinois Dwarfed by Amazing Exploits of Grange

HARRY HALL, INSET, "BROTHER AL." Harry Hall at nine years of age decided to play quarterback for Illinois, like his brother Al. He's doing it.

BY L. M. TOBIN

Back in 1911, elegant, yellow-haired quarterback called the signals for Illinois against Minnesota in the closing game of the season. The Illinois, crippled and concededly inferior in ability, faced the strong Gophers, who had only to beat them to have a clean title to the conference championship. Illinois on paper did not have the slightest kind of a chance.

This isn't the kind of story in which the underdog wins. Minnesota triumphed, but only by a hair. The Illinois rooters carried their players off the field on their shoulders, and they cheered no player more than the blond quarterback, for it was his cool-headed generalship, his kicking and his all-round work which had helped to bring victory so near.

On the Illinois stands, a nine-year-old boy, with tears in his eyes, said to his father:

Child Dream Comes True

"I'm going to play quarterback on Illinois some day, just like brother 'Al'."

"Brother 'Al,'" the quarterback in that 1911 game, "Sweetie" Hall in those days. Now he is Attorney Albert L. Hall of Waukegan, Ill.

Childish dreams seldom come true. But today another elegant, yellow-haired quarterback is calling the signals as the fighting Illinois gather in their famous "huddle." His name is Harry Hall and he is the same nine-year-old boy of 1911.

Harry Hall was a pretty good player in high school but he created no especial furore on the Illinois freshman team, where he was tried at full back. His weight was only 155 pounds. Everybody regarded him as just an average player—that is, everybody but Bob Zuppke.

Hall Impressed Zuppke

"Zup," busy as he was with his varsity, out of the corner of his eye saw Hall's possibilities but not as full or halfback. He made a mental note that this had was an intelligent player. "Zup" is deep. When the Illinois fans doped out the variety of 1923, no one mentioned Harry as a possibility for quarterback. But when Illinois opened its stadium in 1923, "Al" Hall, the quarterback of 1911, sat in the great memorial and saw his brother pilot Illinois to victory over Chicago.

And when Illinois overwhelmed Michigan this year, Hall's defensive and all-around playing was declared by more than one critic to be a feature that was only dwarfed by the amazing exploits of Grange.

Coach Zuppke's Praise

"Hall is the kind of player who plays far better in a game than in practice," explains Zuppke. "He is a good quarterback because he is intelligent and cool. He is calm and quiet and this has the effect of steadying the team. He is a great defensive player and overruling in interference. He can carry the ball if I let him—not a great back, but good enough to worry 'em. He can pass and kick as well as most players. But these are not his jobs."

Harry Hall has never made the headlines because in the Zuppke scheme he seldom carries the ball. But since the Michigan game, the middle west is talking about him. There is no more valuable quarterback in the Big Ten.

But it took Zuppke to pry him out of obscurity and develop him into the quarterback of one championship eleven and of another team which is making a strong bid for honors—a Zuppke, plus the dream of a nine-year-old kid.

Pigskin Primer

What are the rights of the defending side in attempting to break up a forward pass?

When a forward pass is made, no player of the side which did not catch the ball in play shall in any manner interfere with an eligible opponent who has crossed the line of scrimmage until the ball has been touched, except in an actual attempt to catch the ball or bat the ball down himself. When a player of the defending side uses his hands on the player in such a way as to interfere, the ball shall go to the offended side at the spot of the foul and the ensuing down is the first.

Is there any specific rule as to position that must be followed by a player making a forward pass? The pass must be made from a point at least five yards back of the line of scrimmage. Only one forward pass can be made from each scrimmage.

Explain an incompleting forward pass? If the ball, after having been passed forward, strikes the ground within the field of play, either before or after eligible player of either side, the pass shall not be regarded as completed.

STAR GOLFERS CALL PET CLUBS BY ODD NAMES

By NEA Service

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Joe Jackson, baseball slugger, used to call his favorite bat "Black Betsy."

Of late golfers have adopted the fad of naming their favorite weapons.

Bobby Jones has a putter which he calls "Stewie."

Stewart Maiden, Atlanta professional, gave the club to Bobby. Maiden could do nothing with it. Jones has found it a miraculous club.

Mrs. Dorothy Hurd, women's champion, has an approaching iron which she calls "Tommy Campbell," after a noted player.

Mrs. Hurd says "Tommy" won the title for her last fall.

SCORING FIVE TOUCHDOWNS UNUSUAL FEAT

By NEA Service

Chicago, Nov. 6.—The experts are delving into the football statistics in an effort to make some comparison with deeds of past stars and the play of Red Grange against Michigan.

So far they have been unable to find a game in which two major eleven participated where any player gave a greater exhibition of brilliant play than that of Grange.

In scoring five touchdowns and piling up a total of over 400 yards as his work for the day, he did more than all other rivals of Michigan combined were able to do last season.

Last year only one team, the Quince Mariners, made up of former college stars, managed to score a touchdown against Michigan.

The combined total of points scored against Yost's eleven was an even dozen, Iowa and Wisconsin kicking field goals in addition to the touchdown made by the Mariners.

Grange, in scoring five touchdowns against Michigan, had one of the biggest days ever credited to a major football player in an important game.

JACK JOHNSON GREATEST RING STAR, SAYS JIM

By NEA Service

Cleveland, Nov. 6.—Jimmy Dunn, who made champions of Johnny Kilbane and Bryan Downey, thinks Jack Johnson, the negro, was the greatest of all heavyweight champions.

"Johnson had everything," Dunn tells you. "He was cagey and clever and fast."

"On all-round greatness I would pick him ahead of Fitzsimmons, Jeffries and Dempsey."

The Nut Cracker

By Joe Williams

Columbia and the football world mourn Haughton's death.

His countless admirers will be consoled by the knowledge that he came back for enough in his new surroundings to prove the Haughton system was something infinitely more than a book of memories and a press agent.

Dempsey tells reporters he will fight Gibbons and then retire. This is the rather illogical result of last summer's bout between Firpo and Willis to establish a logical contender.

A logical contender is not wholly unlike a moral victory.

It sounds very pretty but it buys no spares for the family flier.

MANDAN NEWS

REPUBLICAN LEGISLATIVE TICKET WINS

While only 29 precincts had been returned to the county auditor yesterday afternoon earlier indications as to the result of the county fight were unclouded.

The rural precincts added to the Kelsch poll. When 30 precincts had been officially listed the figures were: Connolly 2061, Kelsch 2216.

Attorney C. F. Kelsch is without question elected state's attorney over L. H. Connolly, 37 precincts give Kelsch 2540, Connolly 2275, a lead of 265.

For superintendent of schools, H. K. Jensen in 30 precincts reported, had polled 2,495 and C. L. Love 1,125 giving Jensen a lead of 970 which it was impossible for Love to overcome.

In the same 30 precincts the Mandan Pioneer polled 2159 as compared to 1190 for the Mandan News, a majority of 969 which will not be greatly cut when the final report is made.

Michael Tschida, Jacob Bollinger and E. R. Helbling, two independents and one leaguer, are assured of seats in the next session of the legislature.

CREW COACH

Eleanor Clifton is said to be the only woman crew coach in the world. She coaches the girl crews at Smith College.

SURE, YOU KNOW HIM!

'Tis Johnny Kilbane, a Reformed Nose Buster, Now Engaged in Busting Broncs in the West

It's a far cry from busting noses to busting broncs. Johnny Kilbane used to be a nose buster. For years he was featherweight champion of the world. Then a little Frenchman, Eugene Criqui, came along and knocked him off. Kilbane hung up the gloves and quit for good. Last summer he spent his time in the west busting broncs on a Montana ranch. You see him pictured here with his little daughter.

With 29 precincts reported, the vote was: Helbling 2318, Bollinger 2056, Tschida 1898, Carl Weber 899, and Jacob Elmer 378.

With 29 precincts reported Coolidge in Morton county polled 1710 LaFollette 1612 and Davis 222. In the same precincts Sorlie ran ahead of Halvorson, the vote being 1647, Halvorson 1577.

With 37 precincts reported on sheriff, McDonald had 2587 according to the unofficial returns as compared to 1801 for Andy Ostrum, a lead of 786.

With 30 precincts tabulated Noakes had 2104 in his race for county treasurer against T. J. Krause, the latter having polled 1560, lead for Noakes of 444.

With 30 precincts heard from John Handtmann, candidate for clerk of court in opposition to Herman Leon-hard, appointee incumbent, had an even greater majority than he had at the primaries, 1795 lead with 22 precincts to hear from.

C. P. O'Rourke, the county commissioner for Mandan for nearly 30 years, met his defeat when J. I. Rovig, former register of deeds, carried the city by 105 votes.

In the Glen Ulin district W. H. Morman was elected county commissioner to succeed Geo. Urban of Hebron by a good majority over Mr. Braun.

The legislative ticket appearing in the Republican column was elected, M. Tschida, Jacob Bollinger, and E. R. Helbling, with Bollinger as usual the high man.

Supreme Court Decision May End 100 Cases

Mandan, N. D., Nov. 6.—Decision of the state supreme court affirming the decision of District Judge H. L. Berry in the case of John Roether against the National Union Fire Insurance company of Pittsburgh, will clean up more than 100 similar cases from the calendars of various Missouri Slope counties, Judge Berry believes.

After court trials in Morton county district court had cost more than the entire sum sued for by the plaintiff and had clogged the calendars not only of Morton but other counties of the state for many terms, attorneys finally reached an agreement to make one test case of the insurance cases, it was said.

Misrepresentation Alleged
Roether, Hettinger county farmer, had insured his crops with the company in 1917 against hail, drought and other causes. He claimed his crops were partly destroyed by dry weather and hot winds, and that $1,000 damage was caused. He settled with an adjuster for the company for $751.50. The adjuster, he alleged, persuaded him the company was in financial straits and could pay him but 79 cents on the dollar. Later, the complaint said, he learned the company was not bankrupt and he brought suit to recover the difference with interest.

The supreme court affirmed Judge Berry in a decision holding that the statute of limitations had run out and that the suit was not legally instituted.

Inventors Tools Undisturbed For 150 Years

London, Nov. 6.—Negotiations are expected to be completed shortly whereby the garret in Heathfield Hall, Handsworth, in which James Watt conducted the experiments which led to the development of the steam engine, will be brought bodily to London to be perpetuated in the South Kensington Museum.

Watt first went to Heathfield Hall in 1768. After his death the room in which he worked was locked and remained unopened for many years, and his tools and benches, even the leather apron in which he worked and which remains in the same spot in which he placed it, have remained undisturbed.

In the deep woods was a pond. It was surrounded by moss and ferns.

"Oh, let us have a swimming party," said Fairy Princess Twilight Bell.

"That would be such fun," said Fairy Yash.

"Oh, yes," said "Let us ask everyone to join us," said the Queen of the Fairies.

So the Breeze Brothers, those good little messengers for the Fairyland people, took around the invitations and asked everyone to come that very afternoon.

They invited Effie Elf and all of the Elves.

His brother Bennie Brownie and all of the other Brownies, too.

Of course, Old Mr. Giant was invited, and Witty Witch was invited, too.

The members of the Bigger family and Ollie Owl and his family were all invited.

Peter Gnome and his family were invited and word was sent to the Pond Fairy to try to get back on time.

She had been off calling on some friends of hers near a pond some distance away.

She came back in time for the party, and all the other guests arrived on time.

Oh, how delicious the water did feel on that hot summer afternoon, and how pleasant the moss was, and how nice the cool, soft bottom of the pond felt when there was nice, mossy, soft ground and pleasant weeds, too.

Everyone did fancy strokes and played and laughed and blew bubbles.

At times the whole pond seemed to be one mass of bubbles, and as they blew bubbles they sang this song:

Blowing bubbles is such fun,
Just take a look at this fine one:
Then they pointed to a beautiful one the Fairy Queen had just made.

Blowing bubbles takes some skill,
They often turn out as they will.

Blowing bubbles takes some skill,
They often turn out as they will.

Then they looked at a funny one Peter Gnome had made.

Blowing bubbles with Fairyland soap gives us all a great deal of hope.

And it did seem, just then, as though all the bubbles were really quite perfect.

Blowing bubbles we all adore,
Bubbles you can't buy at a store.

"No," said Billie Brownie, "Everyone must blow their bubbles, some with ordinary soap, but we blow with Fairyland soap, which only the Queen of the Fairies has."

Blowing bubbles is fine and gay,
It is a glorious game to play.

The bubbles were all becoming better all the time.

Blowing bubbles is simply great,
We blow them in good old rate.

A Splendid Tray.
They were blowing them faster all the time.

Blowing bubbles gives appetite
When we see the food in sight.

For at that moment the Fairy Queen, who had hurried away for a few moments, was seen carrying a splendid tray filled with woodland supper food, and behind her were many other little Fairies carrying trays.

So they stopped swimming and playing and blowing bubbles and sat around the end of the pond, with their feet dangling in the water, and ate of the delicious Fairyland repast.

Little Jaunts
In No. Dakota

The first of the Highway Commission's "See North Dakota First" trips which The Tribune will publish weekly.

Killdeer is located in the middle western part of the state. It is about 45 miles east of the far famed "Badland" of North Dakota and on state highway number 25.

The town is of particular interest to residents of the state because it was the site of a terrible battle between the Sioux Indians and the United States Troop under the command of General Sully.

A few miles to the northeast of the town are the Killdeer mountains, a small range in which is situated the "hostile" canyon, a deep well-like cave through which a heavy draught flows continually.

This whole territory was inhabited by the Indians in the 1800's, and the surrounding territory is covered with remnants of these early residents.

Killdeer, and the Killdeer moonshine, is reached from the east by trails number 2 and 25. From the west it is most conveniently reached by following route numbers 3 and 23 and 22.

If a party wishes to visit the Badlands at the same time as the trip to Killdeer is made, the Killdeer trip can be made a wide trip by following route number 25, after leaving Killdeer, westward until it connects with number 23.

Follow 23 until it meets the Badlands highway, state route number 2 which goes down through the whole of the Badlands territory.

Rose Leaves and Down

By MILDRED GOODRIDGE

"Oh, man! Do you want to do some work?"

It was little Flo Duncombe, a pretty child of eight years, who shouted at a young man passing the garden where she stood with her sister Iola.

"Work, little one?" smiled the stranger, pausing and, at one glance at the lovely face of Iola, becoming interested. "I am always glad to work. What is it?"

"Rose leaves and down!" chattered Flo, excitedly, important and eager.

"I fear my little sister has been presumptuous," spoke Miss Duncombe. "I—I needed some assistance."

"And I am glad of an offer of work," declared the young man promptly. He carried a portfolio under one arm.

The work is less arduous than sewing and painting," she said, and she led the way towards an ornate summer house. As she turned its door the young man instantly understood the allusion of little Flo to rose leaves and feathered roses. To every projection attached particles of soft, filmy down.

Iola said: "Rome one opened the windows where I had been working last night, a strong wind came up and you see the result. The rose leaves were sent me by a friend from California. I have managed to gather them up, for they were blown off the table in a heap, but the down—I fear it is not worth the labor gathering it up."

"You might try," suggested the young man. "If you would get me a pillow-slip, or a deep basket, I will see what can be done."

Miss Duncombe went to the house and brought out three baskets. She was not about the same task as his "hired help." She learned that the name was Archie Blair.

It took two hours to gather up most of the scattered down. Then Iola said:

"I am greatly obliged, and the compensation—"

"I was just going to speak of that," declared Archie. "If you will allow me to sketch some of the beautiful surroundings here, with this little fairy and yourself in the picture, I will feel fully compensated."

So he was an artist, reflected Iola, and several little sketches of his pencil convinced her that he felt was no ordinary talent. She felt warranted in asking him to lunch, and when he went on his way little Flo made him promise to come and see them when he returned from his sketching tour.

If the young artist ceased to remember the fair maiden with whom he had spent those delightful hours, not so Iola. A newcomer in town, a Robert Wilder, came pretty regularly to see her, but Iola took little interest in him. He had bloomed forth in the village as a young man of fortune on a vacation. Mr. Duncombe had met him at the town club and took quite a fancy to him.

One evening this delectable individual met Jim Carr, a servant at the Duncombe home, in a secret way. Judging from their conversation, these two had known each other in a sisterly way in the past. Further, it appeared that the young man of wealth had some gold on him.

"See here, Carr," he said, on the present occasion, "you know what I'm after: a rich wife. If old Duncombe has the money I think I'll object to becoming his son-in-law."

"You want to be spry, then," asked Jim.

"Why is that?"

"Here's a young artist fellow who has been around for a while, painting or two. He met Miss Iola about a week ago, it seems, and, on his way to the city, has decided to stop in the village for a week or two. My opinion is he is in love with the girl."

"Oh, well, I'm pretty solid with the old man," boasted Wilder. "See here, I want you to do something for me, and I'll pay you well."

"All right—what is it?"

"I want you to act as my detective. In other words, could you manage to overhear what conversation goes on in the house?"

"I've got some news," he advised Wilder later.

"Let's have it."

"There's a closet I manage to hide in just off the library, where I overheard a good deal. Night before last I heard Mr. Duncombe telling what a capital fellow you were."

"Good!" congratulated Wilder. "Then I overheard them talking with his lawyer. From the conversation I gathered that he is worth about a hundred thousand dollars."

"Excellent—go on, Jim," directed Wilder.

"Last evening, though, a stranger called. He was inquiring about you. He is a detective from the city, looking you up for a swindling game."

"Zounds! then I'm done for," exclaimed Wilder. "I reckon I'll make tracks from town before I'm picked up," and Wilder started to move away.

"There was something more," advised Jim. "That artist fellow."

"Yes—well, what about him?" questioned Wilder irritably.

"He proposed to Miss Iola this afternoon."

"The mischief!"

"And was accepted."

Kiddies' Evening Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

At Moss Pond

In the deep woods was a pond. It was surrounded by moss and Moss Pond was its name. "Let us have a swimming party," said the Queen of the Fairies.

"Oh, let us have a swimming party," said Fairy Princess Joy.

"Yes, let us have a swimming party," said Princess Twilight Bell.

"That would be such fun," said Fairy Ybab.

"Let us ask everyone to join us," said the Queen of the Fairies.

So the Breeze Brothers, those good little messengers for the Fairyland people, took around the invitations and asked everyone to come that very afternoon.

They invited Effe Elf and all of the Elves.

They invited Billie Brownie and his brother Bennie Brownie and all of the other Brownies, too.

Of course, Old Mr. Giant was invited, and Witty Witty was invited, too.

The members of the Bogy family and Ollie Oaf and his family were all invited.

Peter Gnome and his family were invited and word was sent to the Pond Fairy to try to get back on time.

She had been off calling on some friends of hers near a pond some distance away.

She came back in time for the party, and all the other guests arrived on time.

Oh, how delicious the water did feel on that hot summer afternoon, and how pleasant the moss was, and how nice, soft ground and pleasant weeds, too.

Everyone did fancy strokes and played and laughed and blew bubbles.

At times the whole pond seemed to be one mass of bubbles, and as they blew bubbles they sang this song:

Blowing bubbles is such fun,
Just take a look at this fine one!

Then they pointed to a beautiful one the Fairy Queen had just made.

Blowing bubbles takes some skill,
They often turn out as they will.

Then they looked at a funny one Peter Gnome had made.

Blowing bubbles with Fairyland soap
Gives us all a great deal of hope.

And it did seem, just then, as though all the bubbles were really quite perfect.

Blowing bubbles we all adore,
Bubbles you can't buy at a store.

"No," said Billie Brownie. "Every one must blow their bubbles, some with ordinary soap, but we blow with Fairyland soap, which only the Queen of the Fairies has."

Blowing bubbles is fine and gay,
It is a glorious game to play.

The bubbles were all becoming better all the time.

Blowing bubbles gives appetite,
When we see the food in sight.

For at that moment the Fairy Queen, who had hurried away for a few moments, was seen carrying a splendid tray filled with woodland supper food, and behind her were many other little Fairies carrying trays.

So they stopped swimming and playing and blowing bubbles and sat around the end of the pond, with their feet dangling in the water, and ate of the delicious Fairyland repast.

Little Jaunts In No. Dakota

The first of the Highway Commission's "See North Dakota First" trips which The Tribune will publish weekly.

Killdeer is located in the middle western part of the state. It is about 45 miles east of the far famed "Badlands" of North Dakota and is on state highway number 25.

The town is of particular interest to residents of the state because it was the site of a terrible battle between the Sioux Indians and the United States Troop, under the command of General Sully.

A few miles to the northeast of the town are the Killdeer mountains; a small range in which is situated the "howling cavern," a deep well-like cave through which a heavy draught flows continually.

This whole territory was inhabited by the Indians in the 1800's, and the surrounding territory is covered with remnants of these early residents.

Killdeer, and the Killdeer mountains, is reached from the east by trails number 3 and 25. From the west it is most conveniently reached by following route numbers 3 and 25 and 22.

If a party wishes to visit the Badlands at the same time as the trip to Killdeer is made, the Killdeer trip can be made a side trip by following route number 25, after leaving Killdeer, westward until it connects with number 23.

Follow 23 until it meets the Badlands highway, state route number 2 which goes down

FIRST OF BIG THREE CLASHES ON THIS WEEK

Princeton and Harvard Meet on the Gridiron Next Saturday

New York, Nov. 6.—Princeton and Harvard begin the big three series at Cambridge Saturday in the principal contest of a weekend which finds a lot of important eleven—bringing minor opponents.

Lafayette is favored to reduce Rutgers from the undefeated rank in the clash at New Brunswick. Lehigh another unbeaten team, will meet a strong eleven in Holy Cross at Worcester.

Columbia and Penn State promise a thrilling battle at State College, Pa., and West Virginia and Colgate will be hard matched at Morgantown. Boston College will face Marquette winning over the Navy, but beaten for the first time in four years by Creighton.

Blue Meets Maryland

Yale will prepare for its battles against Princeton and Harvard by taking on Maryland the squad which almost upset the Elis last year but which is not considered strong this season. Pennsylvania, which now stands alone in the east as undefeated and untied, will take on Georgetown as a prelude to Penn State and Cornell.

Cornell, restored to the status of a troublermaker, will meet Susquehanna in its preparation for Dartmouth, which will play Boston university.

Army will meet the University of Florida, which tied New York university this week and Navy may find a soft spot in Vermont after its losing streak.

Crimson Is Favorite

West Virginia Wesleyan will go to Syracuse for the weekend and Brown will entertain the Haskell Indians. Pittsburgh will play Geneva to prepare for its annual western Pennsylvania classic with Washington and Jefferson, which will take Waynesburg.

Harvard is accorded an early edge over Princeton in the first brush of the arduous triangle. Some observers predict the Crimson will achieve a slow awakening in time to beat both Yale and Harvard.

Princeton's showing against Swarthmore was disappointing to the coaches, and the Tiger will enter the big series a doubtful quantity. Yale will be an underdog against Harvard if the Crimson fulfills its promise of beating Princeton.

Don Lourie, former all American quarterback at Princeton, has returned to aid in coaching the Tiger squad for its Yale and Harvard battles.

SPORTS SORTS

Jess Willard was the biggest heavyweight who ever held the title.

Marty Burke is in the throes of a fine comeback, having scored five straight victories.

Mitt Hinkel, Cleveland referee, thinks the fans like a little rough fighting now and then.

Howard Ehmke failed by one game to live up to a spring prophecy. He said he would win 20 games.

Snake Acres, of Princeton fame, designed the putter with which Chick Evans won his first title.

A new attack will be made against the styne at the winter meeting of the U. S. G. A.

Bobby Jones has decided to invade England next spring in quest of the British amateur and open titles.

One-eyed Connolly is a good gate-crasher but he isn't the original Drunken prezo. That gentleman passed out years ago.

With left handers so effective in the majors, Ty Cobb is well fortified with four of them: Whitehall, Leonard, Cole and Wells.

Walter Hagen twice winner of the British open, and the American open championships, will spend the winter in St. Petersburg.

McGraw must strengthen the outfield of the Giants, as Meusel appears to be about through and Papi Young is slipping fast.

According to no less an authority than Hugh Jennings, George Kelly, the first baseman of the Giants, is the most valuable utility man in the majors.

Eddie Collins is a football fan. He takes in all the big games in the east. As a colleague the White Sox star was the big nose in Columbia football.

As in the east and west, the smaller colleges of the east are putting a wide swath in football circles. Southern California beat Pomona College only 14 to 0, while Occidental, another small school, made it interesting for Stanford, 20 to 6.

Football coaches insist that if the officials of the grid game become too technical the sport will drop to the level of basketball, which is now little more than an official's contest, with the athlete used more than the ball.

Fine Play of Quarterback Hall of Illinois Dwarfed by Amazing Exploits of Grange

HARRY HALL, INSET, "BROTHER AL" HAS HALL OF ILLINOIS VETERANS DECIDED TO PLAY QUARTERBACK FOR ILLINOIS, LIKE HIS BROTHER AL. HE'S DOING IT.

BY L. M. TOBIN

Back in 1911, champion yellow-haired quarterback called the signals for Illinois against Minnesota in the closing game of the season. The ill, crippled and comatose player in the stands, faced the "strong" top of the line, who had only to beat them to have a claim to the conference championship. Illinois on paper did not have the slightest kind of a chance.

That's the kind of a boy it was which the underdog wins. Minnesota triumphed, but only by a hair. The Illinois players carried their players off the field on their shoulders, and they cheered no player more than the blond quarterback, for it was his confidence and leadership which kept him kicking and his arm work which had helped to bring victory so near.

On the Illinois stands, a man yet old boy, with tears in his eyes, sat to his father.

Child Dream Comes True

"I'm going to play quarterback on Illinois some day," said little brother "Al".

"Brother Al," the quarterback in that 1911 game, was Swede Hall. In those days, now he is Attorney Albert L. Hall of Waukegan, Ill.

Childish dreams seldom come true, but today, another element, yellow-haired quarterback is calling the signals as the fighting ill in the center of the line. His name is Harry Hall and he is the same nine-year-old boy of 1911.

Harry Hall was a pretty good player in high school but he created no special furor on the Illinois freshman team where he was tried at full back. His weight was only 135 pounds. Everybody regarded him as just an average player—that is everybody but Pop Zuppke.

Hall Impresses Zuppke

"Zup" says he was with me in the varsity out at Chicago and he saw Hall's play in the out put as full of football. He said a mental interfere with an eligible opponent who has crossed the line of scrimmage until the ball has been touched, except in an actual attempt to catch the ball or bat the ball down himself. When a player of the defending side uses his hands on the player in such a way as to interfere, the ball shall go to the offense at the spot of the foul and the ensuing down is the first.

Is there any specific rule as to position that must be followed by a player making a forward pass? The pass must be made from a point at least five yards back of the line of scrimmage. Only one forward pass can be made from each scrimmage.

Explain an incomplete forward pass? If the ball, after having been passed forward, strikes the ground within the field of play, either before or after an eligible player of either side, the pass shall not be regarded as completed.

STAR GOLFERS CALL PET CLUBS BY ODD NAMES

By NEA Service

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Joe Jackson, baseball slugger, used to call his favorite pet "Black Betsy."

Of late golfers have adopted the habit of naming their favorite weapons.

Bobby Jones has a putter which he calls "Calamity Jane." Stewart Maiden, Atlanta professional, gave the club to Bobby. Maiden could do nothing with it. Jones has found it a miraculous club.

SCORING FIVE TOUCHDOWNS UNUSUAL FEAT

By NEA Service

Chicago, Nov. 6.—The experts are delving into the football statistics in an effort to make some comparison with deeds of past stars and the play of Red Grange against Michigan.

So far they have been unable to find a game in which two major eleven participated where any player gave a greater exhibition of brilliant play than that of Grange.

In scoring five touchdowns and piling up a total of over 400 yards as his work for the day, he did more than all other rivals of Michigan combined were able to do last season.

Last year only one team, the Quince Marines, made up of former college stars managed to score a touchdown against Michigan.

The combined total of points scored against Yale's eleven was an even dozen. Iowa and Wisconsin kicking field goals in addition to the touchdowns made by the Marines.

Grange, in scoring five touchdowns against Michigan, had one of the biggest days ever credited to a major football player in an important game.

MANDAN NEWS

REPUBLICAN LEGISLATIVE TICKET WINS

While only 20 precincts had been returned to the county auditor yesterday afternoon earlier indications as to the result of the county fight were unchanged.

The rural precincts added to the Kelsch pool. When 30 precincts had been officially listed the figures were: Connolly 2001, Kelsch 2210.

Attorney C. F. Kelsch is without question elected state's attorney over L. H. Connolly, 37 precincts gave Kelsch 2540, Connolly 2275, a lead of 265.

For superintendent of schools, H. K. Jensen in 30 precincts reported, had polled 2,195 and C. L. Love 1,125 giving Jensen a lead of 970 which it was impossible for Love to overtake.

In the same 30 precincts the Mandan Pioneer polled 2139 as compared to 1190 for the Mandan News, a majority of 969 which will not be greatly cut when the final report is made.

Michael Tschida, Jacob Bollinger and E. R. Holbling, two independent and one leaguer, are assured of seats in the next session of the legislature.

It's a far cry from busting noses to busting broncs. Johnny Kilbane used to be a nose buster. For years he was featherweight champion of the world. With 29 precincts reported, the vote was: Helbling 2318, Bollinger 2056, Tschida 1898, Carl Weber 899, and Jacob Elmer 878.

With 30 precincts heard from John Handmann, candidate for clerk of court in opposition to Herman Leon-hard, appointee incumbent, had an even greater majority than he had at the primaries, 1795 lead with 22 precincts to hear from.

C. P. O'Rourke, the county commissioner for Mandan for nearly 30 years, met his defeat when J. L. Rovig, former register of deeds, carried the city by 165 votes.

In the Glen Ullin district W. H. Norman was elected county commissioner to succeed Geo. Urban of Hebron by a good majority over Mr. Braun.

The legislative ticket appearing in the Republican column was elected, J. Tschida, Jacob Bollinger, and E. R. Holbling, with Bollinger as usual the high man.

Supreme Court Decision May End 100 Cases

Mandan, N. D., Nov. 6.—Decision of the state supreme court affirming the decision of District Judge H. L. Berry in the case of John Roether against the National Union Fire Insurance company of Pittsburgh, will clean up more than 100 similar cases from the calendars of various Missouri Slope counties, Judge Berry believes.

After court trials in Morton county district court had cost more than the entire sum sued for by the plaintiffs and had clogged the calendars not only of Morton but other counties of the state for many terms, attorneys finally reached an agreement to make one test case of the insurance cases, it was said.

Misrepresentation Alleged

Roether, Hettinger county farmer, had insured his crops with the company in 1917 against hail, drought and other causes. He claimed his crops were partly destroyed by dry weather and hot winds, and that $1,000 damage was caused. He settled with an adjuster for the company for $751.50. The adjuster, he alleged, persuaded him the company was in financial straits and could pay him but 79 cents on the dollar. Later, the complaint said, he learned the company was not bankrupt and he brought suit to recover the difference with interest.

The supreme court affirmed Judge Berry in a decision holding that the statute of limitations had run out and that the suit was not legally instituted.

HIGHWAY LAW CHANGES HELD TO BE NEEDED

Highway Commission, in Annual Report, Points Out New Federal Requirements

ASK GASOLINE TAX

Also Increase of License Fees Urged to Create Purely State Fund

Changes in legislation providing for a state highway system in North Dakota must be made if the state is to continue to get federal aid, W. C. Black, chief engineer of the State Highway Commission, says in his annual report to the Governor. The recommendations made by the Highway Commission's annual report are expected to come before the next legislature.

"One of the provisions imposed by federal legislation is that after a certain date, November 9th, 1925, the state must match Federal Aid with funds wholly under the control of the State Highway Commission," the report of the Highway Commission reads. "Under our present state laws most of the funds necessary to meet Federal Aid are furnished from the road and bridge funds of the counties in which the improvements are to be made. Under this method it will be impossible to complete a state highway system for the reason that the poorer and more sparsely settled counties are unable to furnish the necessary funds with which to meet Federal Aid."

Asks Gasoline Tax
It is possible to create a state highway fund, to accord with the federal law after November 9, 1925, without making a direct tax levy, Mr. Black says.

"By proceeding on the theory that those who use our main highways should pay for their construction this state will be able to raise a fund large enough to meet the state's allotment of Federal Aid funds each year," the report says. "This can be done by 1st—re-adjusting our motor vehicle registration fees; 2nd—by providing a tax on gasoline or other motor fuel consumed in automobiles; exempting gasoline or other motor fuel used in stationary engines, farm tractors or dry cleaning establishments and placing the money derived from such a tax where it belongs, in a highway fund."

Readjustment of motor vehicle fees is justifiable, it is declared, the Commission holding that considering the amount of capital invested in automobiles they are not now taxed as heavily as other forms of property. The tax on gasoline, Mr. Black says, will give the users of the highways, whether residents or tourists, an opportunity to contribute their share of the cost of constructing and maintaining them.

From County Funds

At present, the report points out, most of the money required to meet the Federal Aid of approximately $1,100,000 each year must come from county road and bridge funds, derived from general taxation. The only purely state highway funds available for expenditure by the commission now, the report says, are approximately $265,000 yearly for construction and $227,700 for maintenance, from the motor vehicle fund, and $120,000 to aid in building bridges over navigable streams.

Legislation looking to a better regulation of traffic on state roads is urged, including regulations affecting the overloaded motor truck, the tractor and threshing machinery with creaked wheels.

Under the plan of the United States Bureau of Public Roads, designating seven percent of the total mileage as a state highway system and eligible for federal aid, North Dakota would have 7,434.14 miles in a state system, the report says. The Bureau of Public Roads to date has approved 6,174 miles, leaving only 1,260.14 miles to be designated in order to have the total eligible mileage absorbed.

During the period covered by the report, July 1, 1922 to June 30, 1923, it is stated, a total of 1,098 miles of road at a cost of $5,400,000 was constructed.

URGES CHANGES TO STRENGTHEN N. D. TAX LAWS

Tax Commissioner, in Annual Reports, Makes Several Recommendations

FOR MORE VETO POWER

Would Give Governor Authority to Veto Individual Items in Bills

Suggestions for numerous changes in the state tax laws, to be considered by the legislature, are advanced by Tax Commissioner C. C. Converse in his biennial report.

Among the questions which he suggests be considered by the legislature are:

Providing that land owners and owners of real estate mortgages, in order to save property from loss, may pay taxes upon part of a real estate tract.

Clarifying of the duties of the county board of equalization; clarifying the statutory provisions with reference to placing upon the tax list property which has escaped assessment.

Consideration of obsolete laws, such as requiring appraisement of property exempt from taxation, and making it the duty of the assessor to collect military statistics.

Clarifying the laws regarding tax judgment sales, regarding the situs of personal property; abolition of tax supervisors, who have not been found helpful by taxing boards. Provision for traveling auditors of income tax returns. Under present laws the tax commissioner has little power to detect a considerable amount of evasion in connection with the income tax.

Poll Tax Law

The poll tax law fails of its object to a considerable extent because there is no adequate provision for its collection in instances where the taxpayer does not have a substantial amount of tangible property, and provision should be made for collection of the tax.

Revision of the law requiring assessment of real estate, perhaps providing for assessment once each four years.

Amendment of the constitution to make more effective the gubernatorial veto over appropriations.

"In order to make the veto power of the governor effective in such situations (where excessive local appropriations are made) it is necessary that the constitution be so amended as to give him the power either to disapprove or to reduce any item of an appropriation bill," says the report.

"As the constitution now stands, he has the power to disapprove of any item, but he does not have the power to reduce it; he must either disapprove it in toto or approve it. It is because of the fact that he does not have the power to reduce an item without disapproving it in its entirety that this constitutional provision loses much of the effectiveness which its authors designed it to have."

Veto Necessary

The gubernatorial veto is necessary to counter-act appropriations made as a result of "log-rolling," the tax commissioner says.

"Observation of the deliberation of legislative assemblies leads to the conclusion that often the fact that appropriations are made which are not justified by considerations of economy and wise care for the public treasury is not due to any lack of wisdom or lack of desire for economy on the part of individual legislators," says the report. "On the contrary, legislators invariably find themselves victims of the practice commonly known as 'log-rolling.' That is another name for trading votes and is practiced, to some extent, in all law-making bodies. The practice is not nearly as prevalent in our legislature as it is in Congress. Nevertheless, at each session appropriations are made which do not commend themselves to the judgment of legislators who vote for them."

The practice often comes because legislators are pressed by some folks to get a particular appropriation for some institution, Mr. Converse says, holding they are not to be criticized alone for such appropriations.

OAKLAND SPEEDS UP PRODUCTION

Pontiac, Mich., Nov. 6.—Due to the heavy demand for the new Oakland Landau Sedan, which has far surpassed the expectations of factory officials, production has been trebled on this model since it was introduced a few months ago.

This increase is remarkable in view of the fact that the original schedule was carefully based on past selling experience and intimate knowledge of the market, and was considered, at the time, to be extremely large.

One of the reasons ascribed by Oakland dealers for the popularity of this model is that it meets the requirements of a very desirable class of buyers already owning high priced cars, who wish a second car that reflects their tastes in beauty of line, refinement and appointments.

The Landau Sedan, although the highest priced model in the Oakland line, is leading all other types in sales, including the touring car, which is next in popularity.
